Mrs. Hale Denies "Suffrage Twins" Bathed in Nude

"FEDS" INSPECT NEW BRAVES FIELD

FEAR DRUG WAS USED ON LOST GUIDONE GIRL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—"A hypodermic needle may have been used on my cousin," declared Paul Guidone of No. 2445 Grand avenue, Bronx, today, in discussing the mysterious disappearance of pretty sixteen-year-old Louise Guidone, somewhere between Hartford and this city.

"Of course we do not know that such a needle was used, but we fear that such might have been the case. We cannot think of any other way she could have been enticed away from the train.

"She had written to us how delighted she was to visit us. My sisters, Mildred and Frances, are very fond of her. She told us she would arrive on the 11 o'clock train last Monday morning. We went to meet the train, but she was not on it. She had no love affairs that we know of, no desire to go upon the stage and no reason that we can think of for voluntarily running away.

"Her two brothers, John and Robert, are here now hunting for her, and of course the police here and all along the line are making a complete search.

"The girl was put on the train leaving Hartford at 8:36 last Monday morning for New York."

Pope Fears War Will Last Another Year

ROME, Aug. 11.—The Pope granted an audience to Cardinal Billot, who has confided to his friends that the Pontiff is much grieved respecting the failure of his efforts to make peace, and now believes that the war is sure to be prolonged another year.

President Gaffney of the Braves entertained four of the biggest men in Federal League baseball in Boston today. The party included President James B. Gilmore, George Ward, vice-president of the Brooklyn Club; Harry Sinclair, millionaire Oklahoma "oil king," who is financially interested in the Newark team, and C. B. Comstock, a stockholder in the Pittsburg Feds.

The Federal magnates came here from New York early today for the express purpose of inspecting Braves' Field, the new home of the Boston National League Club. They desire to get "pointers" for the building of a mammoth Federal League park in New York, which city they intend to invade next season.

Gaffney greeted the magnates on their arrival, and immediately took them to the new Braves grounds in Allston. He pointed out the beauties of the park, and as a contractor, was well qualified to speak on that topic.

TWO CLUBS ARE ENOUGH.

During his conversation with the reporters, President Gilmore of the "Feds" remarked that his organization would not invade Boston, as he felt the community had all it could do to support the two clubs here now.

"Our plans for 1916 do not include Boston," said Mr. Gilmore. "We do not believe that Boston is good Federal League territory, and we are convinced that it cannot take care of a third club," continued the fighting boss of the "Feds."

"We are surely going to invade New York, And we're going to have 10-cent baseball there, too. In fact 10-cent baseball is going to prevail throughout the whole circuit next season. Fifty cents is going to be the standard grandstand price.

"We are here to get ideas for the new park that we intend to build in New York. Mr. Gaffney's park is the most wonderful I have ever seen, and I am sure that a glance over the plant will be of great value to us. Our architect is with us and he can see for himself."

REDUCED PRICES POPULAR.

At this point the conversation shifted back to reduced prices in baseball. Mr. Gilmore was asked what he thought of the plan. He replied: "We are sure that reduced baseball prices will prove popular and profitable. We'd rather have 10,000 "fans" in our parks at 25 cents than 5,000 at 50 cents. We believe that our common sense prices will make baseball more than ever the real national game."

The Federal League party will attend the double-header at Fenway Park this afternoon and will return to New York on the 5 o'clock train. They will come here again on August 18 for the opening of Braves' Field.

Reports Submarines in Mediterranean

What is reputed to be one of the richest cargoes that ever came into Boston Harbor is being unloaded from the holds of the huge freighter, Tuscan Prince, at the Mystic docks. Her cargo is estimated to be worth $500,000, and consists of 1,500 tons of block tin, 1,000 tons of crude rubber, and valuable fabrics and oriental products.

Captain Burwash said that when he had passed through the Straits of Gibraltar he was told that three German submarines had just entered the Mediterranean.

EVACUATION OF KOVNO FORT IS STARTED

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The Russians have evacuated Fort Benjamlewo, one of the eastern defences of Novo Georgievsk. The entire Russian line south of Lomza is retreating.

By the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 11.—The evacuation of the Russian fortified city of Kovno has begun.

Official announcement of the abandonment of the city before the mighty Austro-German drive was made this afternoon by the War Office.

The government archives are being removed to Hobrulsk, 250 miles southeast of Kovno in the government of Minsk.

Kovno lies in the path of the great cavalry army of General von Buelow which is sweeping eastward against the Warsaw-Petrograd railway.

Kovno is the capital of the government of the same name. It is strongly fortified and for two days the forts have been under the fire of the heavy German guns.

Kovno lies on the Niemen River and upon the railway line running from Vilna to Koenigsberg, in East Prussia. The city is one of the principal fortresses in the second line of defence of the Russians. Its evacuation means that the Russian army of Grand Duke Nicholas will retire at least 260 miles eastward of Warsaw. It had originally been intended to retreat behind the fortresses of Kovno Grodno and the Brest litovsk, but the evacuation of Kovno means that this line is untenable.

With the Germans in Kovno, the Russians will probably have to retire far eastward from Brest Litovsk for strategical reasons. Riga will also probably fall as well as Vilna.

BABIES DO DON SUITS AT BEACH

Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale said at Scituate today with some feeling that the naked truth about the report that her "suffrage twins," Rosemary and Clemency, go bathing naked, is simply that twice they were undressed for a few minutes on the beach while their bathing suits were being dried. Outside of that, the mother said, the twins wear their usual bathing suits, such as they had on today.

The twins are 18 months old only, but, according to the extensive reports from Scituate, Mrs. Peter F. Tague, wife of the Charlestown Congressman, had beheld the twins stripped on the beach and had protested that girl babies shouldn't bathe publicly in the nude.

Mrs. Tague, who has a girl of 12 and a boy of 14, was quoted as saying:

"I object to the practice because it endangers the morals of other little boys and girls who bathe with them."

Mrs. Hale was quoted—and this is where the mother of the twins feels particularly hurt—as saying:

DENIES STATEMENT.

"This age has progressed. There are still a few prudes among us. I should not expect to see a grown-up person bathing with nothing on. But why in the world should anyone complain of little ones, infants less than two years old, in the nude?"

The mother was quoted to this and more effect in an "interview" which she today denied wholly and absolutely.

Adding interest to the Scituate report was the detail that Mrs. Tague planned to remonstrate to Police Chief John F. Turner and that Brother Turner was puzzled to know just what he would do in case he spoke to Mrs. Hale about the "undressed kids" and the suffrage mother insisted on serving her interesting offspring nude on the public beach, as it were.

Miss Rosemary and Miss Clemency were found on Second Cliff beach with their nurse. The twins were in cute gray one-piece bathing suits, trimmed with red. The twins looked as winsome as baby girls of eighteen months, who are naturally prepossessing, could look in that garb. They played about the sand in infantile abandon.

HAVE SUFFRAGE CART.

On the beach, too, was their five-year-old sister, likewise in a one-piece gray bathing suit. Near the twins was their suffrage cart of yellow, the gift of admiring Boston friends.

Mrs. Hale was away at the post-office on her bicycle. When she returned to the cottage she said:

"I was astonished to see in the Boston morning newspapers today what purported to be an interview from me. I gave no interview except one last evening to one Boston newspaper. The substance of that interview was that the twins are 18 months old. That was all I cared to say then. But another interview, purporting to come from me, is without the least foundation. I have written a statement to that paper.

"I have no special ideas or notions about how babies should be dressed and never took any special attitude in the matter. I have been particularly careful because I am a suffragist and people are apt to attribute queer notions to us. So I believe it is better

STOP HUB WOMAN AS SPY

A letter just received in Boston tells of the detention and search by the British authorities at Kirkwall, England, of Fraulein Margarete E. Mitzlaff, professor of German at Simmons College of Domestic Science, who sailed from New York in June on the Danish liner Oskar II. for Copenhagen. She was accused of being a German spy.

At her own demand the Fraulein was searched by a British nurse. Finally, when no incriminating evidence could be obtained against her, she was released. She bore up under the experience, but later was so affected that she is now under medical care at Elbing, West Prussia, Germany. She may not be able to return to her duties at Simmons College this fall.

HELD UP ON HIGH SEAS.

The Oskar II. was held up by a British war vessel June 19 and taken to Kirkwall. On June 21, at Kirkwall, when the passengers were expecting their release, the letter says, Fraulein Mitzlaff was ordered before the commander of Kirkwall, she was cross-examined, her cabin and trunks were searched and she was told that, while her German passport seemed regular, she must be sent to Edinburgh Castle. Then Fraulein Mitzlaff insisted on her person being searched.

A purse was called from a hospital, who reported after the search that nothing suspicious was found. At last Fraulein Mitzlaff was told she might return to the Oskar II., but that all her letters and some letters she had taken from friends in Boston to deliver in Germany would be retained at Kirkwall.

DENOUNCED AS SPY.

In explanation, the Kirkwall commander told the fraulein that, before the Oskar II. sailed from New York, the British Admiralty had received a wireless warning it was Margarete E. Mitzlaff of Boston was a German spy.

The letter says it is assumed that some English agent in this country had mistaken Fraulein Mitzlaff's passport documents for political matter. Her passports came by registered mail from the German consulates in Boston and New York and from the German embassy in Washington.

Before Fraulein Mitzlaff left Kirkwall on the Oskar II. she was complimented by the commander for her pluck.

The body of Frank Sisson, twenty-four of No. 17 Rockland street, Roxbury, who was drowned in Whitman's Pond, East Weymouth, last Sunday after he had dived from a boat in the deep part of the pond, was found today by a professional diver from Boston.

Submarines of the Kaiser Blow Up More Ships

By JOHN C. FOSTER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—German submarines have claimed seven more vessels. News arrived this morning that the Russian bark Baltner had been sunk and the British steamer Rosalie so badly damaged that she had to be beached.

The first reports had stated the Rosalie was sunk, but she managed to reach shore.

This afternoon there came in rapid succession the news of the sinking of the trawlers Young Admiral and George Criddle, the steam trawler Utopia, the Norwegian bark Morna and the British steamer Oakwood.

As far as the reports thus far received show, not a single life was lost among the crews of the seven boats.

Fear of Bombs Keeps Kaiser Out of Warsaw

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 11.—Fear that Russian spies would attempt his life delayed the triumphal entry of the Kaiser into Warsaw, it was learned today.

The Emperor planned to enter the Polish capital with his victorious troops upon the heels of the Russians. But rumors reached the German Secret Service that all the public places in Warsaw had been mined and agents of the Czar left behind in the Polish capital with orders to slay the Kaiser.

Consequently arrangements for his immediate entry into the capital were cancelled.

For the same reason American and other neutral correspondents in Berlin, who were to have been permitted to enter Warsaw on the day following its evacuation, were compelled to delay their visit.

Laborers Strike on Springfield Railway

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 11.—Two hundred and fifty laborers employed by the Springfield Street Railway Company on repair work in this city, West Springfield and Agawam threw down their tools this morning and declared a strike, without any notification to the company except by appeals to the foreman for an increase in pay from $1.75 to $2 a day.

HANDS OFF, CARRANZA SAYS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—General Carranza has warned the United States to keep "hands off" in Mexico. Secretary of State Lansing had that warning in his possession when he met with the Latin-American diplomats in New York city today.

The Carranza agency announced this afternoon that Carranza's message to Lansing emphatically denied the right o fthe United States to attempt to force as compromise government in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—General Funston now has 4,000 troops at strategic points along the Mexican border and 7,000 at Texas City prepared to board transports at short notice. In addition Secretary of War Garrison has orders for additional troops, stationed in other departments, ready for signature if necessary, it was explained at the War Department today.

No orders for any further troop movements have been issued, Secretary Garrison declared, when he returned to his desk today, and none will be issued until a grave emergency is precipitated.

Garrison declared that the troubles in Texas are entirely divorced from the political situation in Mexico. He declared that he was far from convinced "that native Mexicans are responsible for the raiding across the border."

He received today a complete report from General Funston, detailing all of the military operations in progress to stamp out brigandage, but declined to make its nature public. "We have the situation in hand," he said.

Zapatista's attacks on trains between Mexico City and Vera Cruz are delaying the arrival of Senor Cordoza, the Brazilian Minister at the latter place, Consul Silliman informed the State Department today.

A train just in advance of the one carrying Senor Cordoso and his family was attacked by a Zapotista band. The raiders were driven off after brief fighting. Silliman said he did not expect Cordoso's train to reach Vera Cruz before noon today.

A train on the Interoceanic Railway was destroyed near Portero and several Mexicans on it were killed.

Quiet has been restored in Vera Cruz, according to Consul Silliman. In a dispatch to the State Department this afternoon he reported that the authorities have quelled all of the anti-American demonstrations and that the city is again tranquil.

Silliman stated that the Governor of Vera Cruz has conveyed to him his deep regret over the "unfortunate outbreaks."

He also stated that a proclamation will be posted by the Governor warning all persons that participation in further demonstrations of this character will be severely dealt with.

This report was accepted by State

RUSH U. S. WARSHIPS TO MEXICO

Department officials as removing the immediate necessity for sending any additional warships other than those now en route to Vera Cruz.

The army and navy of the United States was waiting today, ready for instant service in Mexico. Meanwhile its diplomatic service was making most earnest efforts to bring order out of chaos and prevent an armed clash.

Admitting that two battleships were steaming south toward Vera Cruz, Admiral Benson, chief of staff, refused to throw any additional light on the naval situation.

Secretary Daniels, recalled from his vacation by orders of President Wilson, stated on arrival at the department that he was without further information from Commander McNamee, in charge of the naval situation at Vera Cruz. He did not deny, however, that the entire Atlantic fleet had quietly been told to be ready for sailing orders if any outbreak takes place at that point.

GARRISON STUDYING REPORT.

Secretary of War Garrison, also back from his vacation, was digesting a lengthy report from General Funston, commanding on the border. Funston stated that the present raids into Texas, which are causing almost continuous fighting between American regulars, Texas rangers and Mexican outlaws is in no way connected with the revolution. These raiding bands, which at some points have penetrated the United States 84 miles are characterized by Funston as rustlers.

Garrison, however, is taking no chance and has the army quartermaster's department on its toes ready to rush the balance of the regular army to Texas if the need arises.

Although the States dominated by Carranbal, and especially Vera Cruz, are the hot-bed of the feeling, every section is effected, due to the belief that the United States has determined on armed intervention if the Mexican people do not agree to a government satisfactory to President Wilson.

The slightest mistake at this time would precipitate an appalling massacre.

Admiral Benson, chief of staff, and an advocate of massing the entire Atlantic fleet in Mexican waters, has been muzzled. Army and navy officers have been directed to say nothing about plans.

WILSON BACK TOMORROW.

Meanwhile, President Wilson will be back to Washington tomorrow to take personal charge of the situation. Secretaries Garrison and Daniels have been ordered back on the job forthwith, and Secretary Lansing in New York is endeavoring to line up South America for his plan of settling the entire trouble.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana, with a full complement of men, are headed south from Newport for Vera Cruz. The gunboats Marietta, Wheeling and Machias, now in Mexican waters, have been ordered to Vera Cruz to reinforce Commander McNamee, who is holding the fort there with only the gunboat Sacramento.

The Captain of the Tennessee, en route to Haiti, with Colonel Waller's regiment of marines to reinforce Rear Admiral Caperton, has been ordered to stand ready for changed orders and may be diverted to Vera Cruz. Caperton himself has been told that he may have to start for the Mexican seaport from Haiti if a crisis is forced on the United States, and to keep the Connecticut ready for immediate action.

The grave danger at present is that Carranza, intensely angered because his representatives here have wired him that there is no hope that he will receive recognition, may permit outrages against foreigners. Many high officials here believe that he would welcome armed intervention in the expectating that all of the other Mexican factions would unite behind him to oppose a foreign foe and that when peace was declared he would be the man to be recognized.

He has been told by Consul Silliman, however, that any such hope is vain. The element of personal responsibility is to be injected into the situation by the United States, it is emphatically declared, and the chief of territory will be punished for outrages that he permits within that territory.

The present situation has served to emphasize the difference between the navy and the State Department. If Admiral Benson had had his way the warship now in Mexican waters would have been added a week ago. But Secretary Lansing has insisted that no move be taken that would indicate any intention to interfere.

WILSON INTERVENED.

If President Wilson personally had not intervened and ordered the Louisiana and New Hampshire to sail they still would be in Newport Harbor today. Secretary Lansing the State Department is even more secretive than it was under former Secretary Bryan, and all of the attaches have been warned that they must not peddle any of its business to become known.

Because of this policy no information concerning the business to be taken up at today's Cabinet meeting has been permitted to leak out. Secretary Lansing has said that a definite plan would be completed.

Ambassador De Gama of Brazil takes direct exception to this statement. He declares that all that has taken place has been discussions, and that all that has been done is to tender the officers of the various countries to the Mexican people and ask them to confer regarding peace.

In this connection it is reported that Carranza has protested to the Latin-American countries against their participating in the conferences with Lansing.

MAY OPPOSE ACTION.

He is reported to have declared that participation may "make these nations accomplices in a crime against our race which possibly may help to bring on a war between two American nations."

Officials very frankly admit that this action is almost certain to confirm the Latin-Americans in their intention of protesting against any move that partakes of the use of force.

The entire Atlantic fleet can be started south within a few hours, and Funston's infantry is ready to be loaded on transports at once. General Hugh Scott is on the border, and could control the situation with the cavalry now available until the coast artillery could be drafted as infantry and sent to his aid.

If possible, the administration will make no move in Mexico until after the conference in New York adjourns, for if the cause be forced surprisingly sharp blows will be struck.

Wilson to Cut Vacation Short; Cabinet May Act on Case Friday.

GENERAL SCOTT ACCOMPLISHES HIS MISSION TO VILLA

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 11.—General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States Army, has accomplished his mission to the border. The following statement was issued:

"General Villa assured me during our interview that the proposed meeting of mining men will be postponed indefinitely. The foreign merchandise seized in Chihuahua last week will be restored. Violations of the law, however, will be prosecuted in the civil courts. My mission here is now accomplished."

Escorted by a mounted detachment of body guards General Villa entered an automobile in Juarez and crossed the border to keep his appointment with the American chief of staff, George C. Carothers, State Department representative, and Colonel R. E. L. Michie, aide to General Scott, went to Juarez and accompanied the Mexican leader to the private residence of J. F. Williams, a banker, where General Scott has made his headquarters.

On the international bridge, a detachment of soldiers from the 16th United States Infantry were drawn up as a guard of honor for General Villa, whom they escorted in automobiles to the place of meeting. General Villa's guards also accompanied their chief to General Scott's residence and remained there until the conference was concluded.

Mr. Carothers and Alberto Madero, political adviser to Villa and brother of the late President Madero, were the only men present at the meeting between the two military chiefs.

General Scott said that while his work here was completed, he would remain awaiting orders from Washington.

WOMAN STEALS DOG TO FEED CHILDREN IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11.—Eight deaths by starvation, all children, have been reported by the police station of the Second Ward. The general hospital also reported deaths by starvation, though the number was not made public.

A Police Court record in the Second Ward was brought to the attention of the American Red Cross representatives as illustrative of the extreme misery prevailing among the lower classes.

A woman was brought into court charged with stealing a dog. The magistrate listened to the story of the complainant and then to the defendant, whose plea was that the animal was stolen for the purpose of killing it and feeding it to her children. The judge dismissed the accused.

Despite the distressing conditions the Red Cross representatives and the foreign relief societies have been able to do very little because the military authorities refuse to allow food to enter the city.

DENY SUFFRAGE TWINS BATHED IN THE NUDE

ter to be on the safe side and to conform to conventional ideas.

"The occasion mentioned, when I was supposed to have been criticised for the twins being undressed on the beach, happened about three weeks ago. I don't know what caused it to be revived now. My mother was with the babies on the beach and was taking off their bathing suits for a few moments to dry them, intending to put them back on immediately.

"While the babies were nude some one came along, whom my mother did not know, and criticised her for having them undressed.

FOOLISH CRITICISM.

"Only twice that I know of have the babies had their bathing suits off on the beach. The other time I was with my mother, and it was simply to dry the suits, as before.

"If there is criticism, it seems to me very foolish. I do not care to take notice of it. I came down to Scituate for rest and quiet and did not look for this publicity."

Mrs. Hale is the wife of Swinburn Hale. She is of international fame as an actress, the niece of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and a suffragist.

The first reports had it that coolness had developed between Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Tague on account of the twins' clothing. Mrs. Clerk of St. Mrs. Hale said, in regard to that, that she did not even know Mrs. Tague.

Mrs. Tague was quoted as saying:

"I object to the practice because it endangers the morals of other little boys and girls who bathe with them. I think it should be stopped. Mrs. Hale knows what I think about it. I believe, and, if she knows the twins to go in bathing in the fashion, I most certainly shall complain to the authorities. I think many other cottagers feel the same as I do."

CAVALRY HUNTING MEXICAN SLAYERS OF U. S. SOLDIER

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 11.—A large detachment of American cavalry set out at dawn today to run down Mexican bandits who killed a United States soldier and Ike Gardner, near Mercedes, last night. The soldier was shot down in the darkness while with three companions he was guarding the little town from an attack which had been threatened.

The bandits crept up to the town shortly after 9 p. m. and opened fire on its defenders. One soldier fell shot through the heart, but the other three replied to the volley and the bandits fled.

The Mexicans' boldness is increasing daily. When a passenger train arrived at Armstrong last night the soldiers who had been put on board to repel any attack reported they had been fired upon. They replied to the fire, but the darkness prevented them from aiming well and none of the bandits was hit.

I would have it bleeding, in fact, with my rough treatment. My hair fell out badly. I was hungry.

Dextrose Found by Science to Cause Diabetes

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The primary cause of diabetes—a mystery that has baffled medical science for centuries and increased enormously the death rate of every country—has been discovered by two Rockefeller Institute investigators, Dr. Samuel J. Meltzer and Dr. F. S. Kleiner.

Announcement by Dr. Meltzer and Dr. Kleiner of their discovery has just been made to the National Academy of Sciences at Washington, and reported by the academy to other scientific institutions throughout the world.

Latest available government reports on deaths from diabetes in the United States show 9,645 succumbed to the disease in a single year, about the same number that died of typhoid fever. New York City health reports show about 750 persons die annually here of diabetes.

Dextrose, a form of sugar less sweet that cane sugar, found in the tissues of all animals, most sweet fruits and berries—grapes, raisins, cherries, etc.—is to blame for diabetes, the investigators say.

From this discovery to the prevention and practical elimination of the scourge may be only a step. With either too much or too little dextrose in the system anyone is in danger. The moral for apprehensive persons is: "Consult a physician."

East Boston Boy Drowns in Chelsea Creek

Edward Price, eleven, of No. 318 Princeton street, East Boston, a pupil in the Emerson School, and one of the most popular lads of that district, was drowned today in Chelsea Creek, near the chemical works on East Eagle street, East Boston, when he was seized with cramps in fifteen feet of water.

With several companions, Edward was diving from logs which were tied together. Swimming some distance into the stream, Edward became confused. He shouted for help, but his companions thought he was only joking.

Near at hand is the East Boston car barns where Edward's brother, John Price, is employed. Learning of the accident he ran to the bank and dived fifteen or twenty times for his brother's body. He was unsuccessful, however.

War Demands of the German Intellectuals

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The Figaro prints a Berne dispatch today stating that the following manifesto has been issued by the German Intellectuals:

"We do not want to dominate the world, but demand the ability to exercise our culture and our industrial and commercial rights all over the earth. To this end we must remove the French menace and danger. We must modify the western frontier from Belfort to the coast. We must, if possible, conquer the French Channel coast in order to fortify ourselves against Great Britain. We must exact big indemnity from France and must hold Belgium in our hands politically as well as from a military standpoint."

The manifesto also urges the annexation of the Russian territory now in the hands of the Germans.

Berlin Papers in Move to Exclude 'Chant of Hate'

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The Berliner Tageblatt and other influential papers are backing the campaign against Ernest Lissauer's song expressing hatred for England. The campaign was started by the Cologne Volkesseitung, a Catholic organ, which demands the exclusion of the song from books intended for the young. The paper declares it would be a portentious condition if at a time of international bitterness even the youth of a nation were taught to cherish hatred.

Herr Lissauer, author of the "Chant of Hate," was decorated by the Kaiser with the order of the Red Eagle after his song was published in Munich.

REPORT HAITI TO HAVE EARLY ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Despite renewed uprisings in the interior, officials today continued to consider the Haitien outlook favorable. The rebels who pillaged Grande Riviere and razed a number of plantations have been dispersed and some of the ringleaders captured, according to a report from Admiral Caperton.

Admiral Caperton reports that arrangements for the election of a president by Congress are progressing, but gives no details.

J. F. Mellyn to Aid Secretary to Governor

Governor Walsh today appointed Joseph F. Mellyn of Boston as his assistant secretary. The appointment was sent to the Governor's Council for confirmation.

"Joe" Mellyn was born in Roxbury and was educated in the Dudley Grammar and Roxbury High schools.

He succeeds Elias A. McQuaid, who resigns to return to his newspaper work, and who will be active in the publicity bureau at the Walsh headquarters during the campaign.

PLAN SEASON OF GRAND OPERA FOR BOSTON

Boston is to have its season of Grand Opera this Fall, if negotiations now under way are carried to a successful conclusion. This is made possible by the enterprise of Max Rabinoff, managing director and impresario of Pavlowa.

Mr. Rabinoff has acquired the whole of the scenery and stage settings of the Boston Opera House.

When the final arrangements have been completed and proper adequate financial support is assured, Mr. Rabinoff will present to Boston a reorganized and strengthened opera company in conjunction with the Pavlowa Ballet Russe, thus forming a combination giving grand opera performances of a kind never presented here before and introducing an art-form new to the United States.

Auber's "The Dumb Girl of Portici" is the mimeo-dramatic grand opera to be offered by this great organization, while "The Enchanted Garden," music by Josef Holbrooke, England's leading composer, and Douglas Malloch is the mimo-choreographic offering.

WILL GIVE "CARMEN."

But there will be other grand operas besides these novelties. "Carmen," with the complete ballet; "La Gioconda" and "L'Amore de tre Re," which is now the reigning operatic success in all foremost opera houses, will be given in conjunction with a unique version of Gluck's Orfeo by Pavlowa and the Ballet Russe. "Romeo and Juliet," as originally written to include terpsichorean features, will also be done by Pavlowa and her Ballet Russe.

Among the world's famous artists whose services the managing director has already secured are the dramatic tenor, Giovanni Zenatello; Maria Gay, mezzo-soprano; Ippolito Lazzaro, the reigning sensation at Buenos Ayres, and George Baklanoff, one of the world's greatest baritones.

FELICE LYNE TO COME.

Other celebrated principals likewise contracted for are Felice Lyne, Maggie Teyte, Marie Kousnetzova, first lyric soprano of the Petrograd Imperial Opera; Riccardo Martin, the American dramatic tenor of the New York Metropolitan Opera company; Gaudio Manusseto, Italy's premier basso, and the foremost of American baritones, Thomas Chalmers.

That the stage direction will be of the highest character is assured through the contract made with Professor Max Reinhardt's chief colleague, Rzgard Ordynski, while the chorus is to be in the excellent hands of the eminent Italian musician, Amedeo Barbieri.

Robert F. Brunton, long technical director of the Boston Opera company, comes to this new organization in a like capacity, while the Boston Opera company's former business manager, W. R. Macdonald, will serve in that capacity for Managing Director Rabinoff.

The artistic services of Joseph Urban have been retained, and he is at present designing scenery and properties at the studios in Swampscott. Productions are also now being designed and executed by Leon Bakst and Sydney Sime, who in the past have made Mme. Pavlowa's gorgeous stage settings.

Father of Seven Kills Himself

John J. Falvey, fifty-one, of No. 1 Dexter place, South Boston, hanged himself in a cell of the new South Boston police station.

He had been arrested on the charge of drunkenness and locked up. A half hour later Patrolman O'Neil found him hanging by his belt from the top of the cell door, apparently having jumped down from a chair after fastening the belt about a bar of the door and around his neck.

Falvey was a stableman and a member of the Stablemen's Union. He leaves a wife and seven children.

BOSTON MEN IN PLATTSBURG CAMP

Boston's delegation of business men soldiers, nearly 250 strong, is today at the Business Men's Military Instruction Camp, Plattsburg, N. Y., ready for duty. Regular instruction starts today.

The Boston contingent includes the oldest student man among the 1,200 thus far at the camp.

He is J. Winthrop Pickering, sixty-seven years old. Mr. Pickering has a law office at No. 24 School street, and lives at No. 41 Vinal avenue, Somerville.

With a full gray beard Mr. Pickering is in strange contrast to the young and middle-aged men who make up the body of students. The officers were astonished when they found Mr. Pickering in line. They strongly advised against his taking the course. Mr. Pickering finally took up his case with Maine-General Wood. He said:

"I want at least one member of my family to be fitted to serve the country in time of trouble."

General Wood relented and Mr. Pickering will be allowed to take the course, but on account of his age will be spared the "hikes" and other parts of the instruction which require hard muscular effort.

Business men are in camp today from Boston, New York and Philadelphia and many other cities. Some of the best known men in the country are present and have been assigned to places in the ranks. No matter what their station at home, at Plattsburg they are known only as "Private So. Blank."

Among the "rookies" is Mayor Mitchel of New York city. "Private No. 1291" is his official designation. Private Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Walter Clarke, Jr., J. B. Douglas, Dr. A. B. Allen of Philadelphia and Alderman Henry H. Curran of New York city are among some of the well known "students" at the camp.

The Boston contingent on their way to camp arrived at Burlington, Vt., in a pouring rain. They went in a body to Hotel Vermont for breakfast, after breakfast the party embarked on the steamer "Ticonderoga" for Plattsburg

HEARST PLAN FOR NEUTRAL LEAGUE IS COMMENDED

Continued indorsement of the AMERICAN'S editorials urging that the United States lead in the immediate formation of a league of neutral nations to demand a clear definition of neutral rights and promote a speedy peace, comes from the citizen body of Boston and New England. Men of varied positions, including leaders in business and the professions, praise the editorials with vigor. Characteristic interviews include the following:

JUDGE TIMOTHY J. AHEARN of the Roxbury Court:

The splendid editorial in Monday's issue of the AMERICAN urging the United States to lead in the immediate formation of a league of neutral nations to end the European War and secure a definition of neutral rights voices the sentiments I am sure of liberty-loving people the world over. Such editorials are of great service to our country and show a grasp of international affairs which must ultimately redound to the formation of a sound and healthy sentiment looking towards the object for which they are intended. I place my stamp of approval on such a routine as outlined in the editorial in question and join with fair-minded men in wishing William R. Hearst great success in his meritorious movement for peace and preparedness as inaugurated by his great chain of newspapers.

ATTORNEY ARTHUR R. V. HILL of Roxbury:

I think that inasmuch as our government is made up of firm cosmopolitan conditions we are peculiarly fitted governmentally to act as arbitrators and from such arbitration would come results such as would be recognized by the entire civilized world. It would be a great factor in preventing future warfare.

ATTORNEY P. JOSEPH McMANUS, former member of the Legislature from Ward 19:

Our government should continue its policy of the past to keep open arms for citizens of foreign countries to come here, and such a policy can only be maintained by offering the splendid inducements for work in our mills and factories as in the past. Immigration will stop and many of our aliens and citizens of foreign birth will depart for their homes if peace is not soon brought about by all the neutral countries led by this country, due to the fact that labor will be the greatest demand.

GUY K. HAM, lawyer:

The suggestion of the AMERICAN is interesting and deserving of great consideration. A hasty perusal of the editorial, however, leads me to believe that it would be unwise to carry the plan out in view of present day conditions. A league formed to protect neutral rights must be prepared to use force, if those rights are not respected. The combination suggested, as members of such a league, is not sufficiently prepared, either from a military or naval standpoint, to combat either of the two great combinations now fighting each other. Certainly not powerful enough to defy them both. Moreover, such a scheme might end in bringing a conflict to protect the right of some one of the European powers now at peace. And I do not believe Americans care to mix in the quarrels of other nations, save only when the rights and privileges of our own citizens are involved.

AUGUSTUS P. GARDNER, Congressman:

Before I discuss anything else, I want to know whether or not we are to hold Germany "to strict accountability" for blowing up the Lusitania. When Germany has made amends for insulting every principle of international law, I am ready to discuss the making of new international laws, and not before.

WILLIAM H. SARGEANT, vice-president of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company of Springfield:

The AMERICAN has a mighty strong editorial. I am not prepared, however, to discuss a question of such momentous importance. I am short notice. If this league of neutral nations can bring about the desired result, I am heartily in favor of such a plan.

SAMUEL L. POWERS, lawyer and ex-Congressman:

I am in hearty accord with the views expressed in th. editorial of yesterday's AMERICAN. In fact, all the recent editorials in the AMERICAN in relation to the position which the United States should maintain toward the belligerent nations have seemed to me to be thoroughly sound and convincing.

CHARLES SUMNER BIRD, Progressive party candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, 1914:

I asked Governor Walsh six months ago to urge President Wilson to call a league of neutral nations to uphold the rights of neutral people on land and sea. Such a league could, if led by a man of courage and mind, through its control of its means of warfare have dictated a settlement of this fight that today bids fair to engulf the world; such a league sitting in continuous session during the past six months would today be the dominant factor in the present crisis. I fear the time has passed when any league can have much influence, and yet I favor the call by President Wilson as suggested in the AMERICAN.

PROF. ALBERT BUSHNELL HART of Harvard:

I think that the league of neutral nations to consider the question of the rights of neutrals during this war is an excellent idea and that much might be accomplished if the neutral nations got together on the question.

HENRY ABRAHAMS, secretary Boston Central Labor Union:

I am afraid that no practical good would come from such a movement, although the plan proposed by Mr. Hearst would seem to be sound in principle, if conditions were different.

PATRICK F. O'HEARN, Building Commissioner of Boston:

I read your editorial headed "United States Should Lead Neutrals in Demand for Rights," and it was one of the plainest and nearest to the point of satisfaction I have ever seen. It was encouched in simple words that all could read and understand. I read the Boston AMERICAN editorial page constantly with great pleasure, but that editorial was simply grand.

JOSEPH BENSON, Representative, Ward 24, Dorchester:

THOMAS LEAVITT, Ex-Senator, Editor of Dorchester Beacon:

I read the editorial referred to and will say that the AMERICAN has turned out a masterpiece, to the point, and impressive. It will be read everywhere with a great deal of interest.

J. PAUL KANTY, President Dorchester Catholic League, Editor of Dorchester Telegram:

Your editorial on neutrals was very impressive and certainly was good reading. Your paper by its effort has certainly struck the right cord, which will resound throughout the country.

E. W. BURT, shoe manufacturer of Lynn:

Mr. Hearst, in today's edition of the Boston AMERICAN, sounded the keynote of the situation. By all means form a league of neutral nations. In my opinion this would end the assault upon our shipping which threatens to cripple American maritime commerce of the future.

All American goods not contraband of war should be immediately released by the British and our ships which are now held by Great Britain should be surrendered to the United States.

As conditions are today shoe manufacturers in this country would be most unwise if they accepted orders from neutral nations abroad. Great Britain, or any other of the warring nations, would take the ships containing American made shoes, or other goods, and the manufacturer of these goods would lose not only his profit on the commodities, but also all future orders from the patrons who placed them.

Make Great Britain and Germany both respect the full rights of the neutrals.

JAMES E. COVENEY, real estate dealer, No. 407 East Broadway, South Boston:

I believe the United States should lead all nations in an effort of this kind, as it would have a tendency to bring about peace. This country is not for war and as far as I can to it and then I guess the other nations are aware of what we are capable of doing.

DR. HERBERT J. KEENAN, No. 256 West Broadway, South Boston:

I certainly believe this country should and will lead in the demand for neutrality and no doubt will have the co-operation of other neutral countries. American citizens and cargoes ought to be respected by both Germany and England.

MAYOR JOSEPH H. GAINER of Providence:

Any movement whereby our rights may be made plain would be of great benefit. I think this is the opportune time and the United States the proper one to formulate any movement the would tend to bring about peace. Some peace conference should be considered.

GOVERNOR R. LIVINGSTON BEECKMAN of Rhode Island:

I believe we should all stand by the President in these trying times. I am willing, for my part, to abide by any decision the President might make, as I believe he has in mind the settlement of this terrible war and will use every means possible to bring about that end.

J. P. Collins Tells Why

The Wise Buyers Are Attracted to His

PIANO SALES

Are why the BIG MARKDOWN SALE that he is now conducting contains what he considers sensational bargains.

The brainy buyers know that I sell any makes of new pianos that come to my sacrifice floor for less money than any other dealer—This I have demonstrated time after time, much to the pleasure and profit of my customers. No piano manufacturer in or outside of Boston can make any arrangements with me to keep up prices on his piano—They get no high price protection in my shop.

J. P. COLLINS
Boston's Piano King
Crowned King of Low Prices and Big Sales

In this present sale are the finest new upright pianos—known throughout the piano world as A-1 instruments. The wise ones know the pianos and they also know the regular prices on these standard pianos, and when I cut the prices at my sales from $100 to $200 below the regular cash price, the people hustle out here for a genuine and sensational bargain. The following mark downs of well known standard upright pianos prove my statements.

NEW ENGLAND MUNITION MEN MAY STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Prepared to call a general strike, if necessary, to obtain an eight-hour day in every munition plant in New England, President James M. Johnston of the International Association of Machinists returned to Washington today to line up organized labor's support.

Between 50,000 and 100,000 men in plants scattered throughout Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine are affected by the decision to fight for shorter hours. Less than one-third of the machinists and men of allied crafts in these plants have been organized, but the unorganized are reported to be ready to walk out with the union men. Johnston and his advisers are known to have sent more than 1,000 union machinists into these shops from other lines of work for the purpose of advancing unionism.

Rumors that the metal trades organizers had made secret inroads upon the security of the United States Steel and the Bethlehem Steel companies, with the purpose of ending the twelve-hour day in the steel industry, were discredited here today.

Labor officials said that the steel companies maintained so perfect a "spy" system that no union man could remain long in their employ without discovery. They do not expect to reduce the hours of employes of these corporations during the war.

New Peace Efforts by Pope Is Denied

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The Rome correspondent of the Echo De Paris, who is an exceptional means of securing information at the Vatican, wires as follows: "There is no question at present of any further steps by Pope Benedict XV. in favor of peace. All statements to the contrary are simply German inventions.

1,050 OFFICERS LOST BY ITALY ON ISONZO

By ANDRE BEAUMONT.
Boston American and London Daily Telegraph exclusive cable service.

MILAN, Aug. 11.—The action on the Carso is progressing favorably. Meanwhile the Italian positions have been considerably improved north of Gorizia, in the region of Plava, where the Italians are now occupying almost the entire zone comprised by the curve of the Isonzo between Desola and Zagora.

To the south of Gorizia, near Grodisca, the Italian forces have gained between Ronano and Doberdo.

ITALIAN LOSSES HEAVY.

The bombardment of Roveredo, in the Trentino, continues.

Italian papers contain reports of fearful losses in the last Isonzo battle, the army of the Duke d'Aosta alone losing 1,050 officers, because the men repulsed in the first onslaught were discouraged and brought forward only by the example of the officers who took the lead, exposing themselves to the concentrated Austrian fire.

An official note denies the Italian losses total 200,000. The Austrian losses in wounded alone are estimated at 85,000. Three additional army corps have been brought from Pola to the Isonzo line.

In addition to the Italian successes in the vicinity of Gorizia they are rapidly sealing the Alpine passes by which the Austrians might attack their flank.

ITALIANS ADVANCE.

After occupying the Austrian trenches near Zagora, the Italians pushed on toward Parlevo, on the wooded slopes of Monte Kuk, most of which already has been taken by the Alpini.

The occupation of Ci-Maundici in the Camelico region is of great importance, being one of the highest summits in the region. Fortifications on this mountain could make it impregnable as Gibraltar.

North of this point the Alpini and infantry already have advanced in the region of Burgstall and in the valley of Sexten.

EDIZIONE ITALIANA
BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 1. BOSTON, 11 AGOSTO, 1915. NO. 42.

Conquistando Gorizia. 85,000 austriaci feriti.

Gravi Perdite Austriache

Un comunicato ufficiale del governo d'Italia nega che gli Italiani abbian perduto 200,000 uomini.

Le perdite austriache, stimate in cifra, si valeverebbero da 85,000 uomini. Da Pola gli austriaci hanno inviato sull'Isonzo altri tre corpi d'armata.

I PASSI ALPINI IN NOSTRO POSSESSO.

Oltre al progresso che gli Italiani fanno vicino Gorizia, essi, rapidamente si rafforzano su tutti i passi alpini allo scopo di evitare che gli Austriaci possano attaccare il loro fianco.

CADORNA SOSPENDE L'OFFENSIVA.

ROMA, 9 agosto.—Secondo notizie attendibili giunte a questa città da Udine, il Gen. Cadorna non riassumerà l'offensiva su larga scala se non prima avrà consolidate le posizioni avversario conquistate.

MILANO, 10 agosto.—Le truppe sul Carso procedono favorevolmente. A nord di Gorizia le posizioni italiane si sono molto rafforzate, nella regione di Plava sino dove gli Italiani ora occupano tutta l'intera zona compresa nella curva del Isonzo tra Desola e Zagora.

Al sud di Gorizia, verso Grudisca, le forze italiane han fatto dei progressi tra Romano e Doberdo.

Il bombardamento di Roveredo, nel Trentino, continua.

ANCORA 30.000 AUSTRIACI.

Si sa da Ginevra che altri 30,000 soldati austriaci sono arrivati sul fronte italiano. Essi provengono dalla frontiera russa. Appena giunti attaccarono gli Italiani vicino Gorizia, ma la artiglieria italiana ne fece una grande strage. 2000 restarono sul campo morti; gli altri furono costretti ad una precipitosa ritirata.

1050 Ufficiali Italiani Perduti

I giornali italiani contengono lunghi articoli che rilevano la terribile perdita subita dagli Italiani nelle ultime battaglie sull'Isonzo. Le truppe al comando del Duca d'Aosta soltanto perdettero 1050 ufficiali, pochi soldati, sconsigliati dagli effetti del fuoco avversario nei loro primi attacchi, furono sospinti d'accapo innanzi dall' esempio dei loro ufficiali i quali, mettendosi alla testa, si esposero così al fuoco concentrato dal nemico.

SHELL GERMAN POSITIONS IN BELGIUM

By BERNARD DELLACOURT,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 11.—German positions on the Belgian coast have been attacked from both sea and air during the past forty-eight hours.

A squadron of British warships bombarded the German positions from Ostend to Zeebrugge, says a dispatch from Sluis. The German batteries among the dunes shelled the ships heavily, but it is believed that all were practically undamaged.

On Tuesday French and British aeroplanes dropped bombs upon the German cantonments and the railway station at Bruges. Several buildings were set on fire.

WILSON TO RUSH WORK ON NOTE TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—With the return of President Wilson action on the protest to Great Britain against interference with American trade is expected to be speeded up. Although the Mexican situation will occupy chiefly the Chief Executive at the outset, the pressure for action by the importers and the cotton men of the South is so strong that he is expected also to rush the British note and get it on the way.

Meanwhile, officials are pleased with the prompt action at Germany in releasing the oil ship Llama and promising to expedite the freeing of the Wilen, both held in Swinemunde. This action is taken as an indication that Germany intends emphasizing her friendliness for the United States while waiting to see what the final position of this government is to be in its relations with the allies on the freedom of the seas.

NO DOUBT THAT RESINOL DOES HEAL SICK SKIN

When you know physicians have prescribed Resinol for 20 years in the treatment of eczema and other itching, burning, unsightly skin eruptions, and have written thousands of reports saying: "It is my regular prescription for itching," "Resinol has produced brilliant results," "The result it gave was marvelous in one of the worst cases of eczema," etc., etc., don't it make you feel that "this is the treatment I can rely on for MY skin trouble?" The action of Resinol Ointment touches itching skins, the itching stops, and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it almost always clears away every trace of eczema, ringworm, pimples, or other distressing eruption quickly, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Sold by all druggists. For trial free, write to Dept. 23-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Great for sunburn.—Advertisement

GERMANS BRING UP ARTILLERY IN ARGONNE

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
Special Correspondent International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Their infantry having been repulsed, despite desperate efforts to cut their way through the French front in the Argonne, the Germans are now trying to batter a breach with their heavy artillery. This afternoon's communique reported a violent bombardment of the French positions east of the Vienne Le Chateau Binarville.

The text of the communique follows:

"In Artois there was a sharp cannonade in the course of the night around Souchez. An attack with petards attempted by the Germans was repulsed.

"In the Argonne a violent bombardment of our position to the east of the Vienne Le Chateau Binarville highway was reported. The night was calm on the rest of the front."

HEAVY FIGHTING RESUMED ALONG DNIESTER RIVER

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY
PETROGRAD, Aug. 11.—Heavy fighting has been resumed along the Dniester river on the extreme southern wing of the opposing Russian and Austro-German armies. Latest reports received by the war office state that the Austrians on the Dniester have been heavily reinforced and have opened a general assault, apparently with the purpose of crossing the river and striking toward the railway centres of Tarnapol and Chortkov.

The enemy gained a temporary success in his first attacks but the Russians later drove him back and regained the lost position.

Dispatches from London state that the Germans are still falling back in the Baltic provinces, but they are maintaining their attacks on the defences of Kovno.

Germans Drop Bombs on Red Cross Trains

By International News Service.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 11.—Two hospital trains of the Russian Red Cross in Poland were bombarded by a Zeppelin airship Saturday, according to a War Office statement issued today. It said that several wounded soldiers were killed and a number of the Red Cross attendants injured.

BALKANS READY TO JOIN THE ALLIES

LONDON, Aug. 11.—That the Entente allies have won over the wavering Balkan states of Greece and Bulgaria and that they will soon throw their military forces against the Teutonic-Turkish armies is indicated by advices received today from the Near East.

A dispatch to the Star from Athens says the Bulgarian legation there has announced that the proposals made by the Entente powers have been found satisfactory to the government at Sofia.

Another Athens message brings the information that ex-Premier Venizelos is again in the saddle of the Greek government and that he will form a war cabinet when Parliament reconvenes on August 16. This means the retirement of Premier Gounaris, who came into power when Venizelos fell with the collapse of his plans for aiding the allies.

RUSH STRAIT OPERATIONS.

The renewed offensive of the British troops at the Dardanelles and the appointment of General Maurice Sarrail to lead the French forces there are taken as confirmation of previous reports that the strait operations will be carried on to a definite conclusion as soon as possible.

With Bulgarian and Greek armies assisting, the allies believe they roll the Turkish army back into Asia and clear the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus for the relief of Russia. It is apparent that the Czar's armies are in desperate straits.

The fall of Warsaw was discounted, but the latest successes of the Germans have shown that the Russians must receive help. This can come only through the Dardanelles.

Roumania, which was ready to follow Italy in declaring war on Austria, but was deterred by the Austro-German victories in Galicia, will undoubtedly follow Bulgaria and Greece when they enter the fray. A dispatch from Bucharest received today says that the internal conditions of Roumania are serious.

PEASANTRY AROUSED.

"Six hundred thousand carloads of wheat, representing the crops of this year and last, are prevented from shipment by the war and the peasants are beginning to show a threatening attitude," it says.

"Unless the government does something to relieve the situation a revolt similar to that of 1907 is feared.

"It is believed the government will be influenced by these considerations and hasten its intervention in favor of Entente, giving early aid in the effort to force the Dardanelles."

All Everett Boosting Nichols for Trip to Big Series

G. F. NICHOLS.

It looks as though the whole city is going to the AMERICAN'S World's Series games. Interested in the FREE trips to see all of the World's Series games are the fans in this city, and now to votes to be distributed if they wish to be one of the fortunate twenty-five, judging from the deluge of votes that have been pouring in from the Contest Editor during the last few weeks.

On account of the enormous amount of votes sent in, it will be impossible to complete the counting, tabulating and checking of them in time for the votes list next sunday, as promised.

The new standing will be printed one week from Sunday, August 24, however, and will contain a record of all votes polled up to and including Series E.

In the meantime, get to work and see how far up in the list you can get before the next standing appears.

All you have to do is to stick to the task of vote-gathering—don't "let up" on it for a single minute—and you will be well repaid for your time and efforts if you are returned a winner.

Candidates are requested to send in their photographs. These will be printed from time to time in the AMERICAN as far as space will permit. Photographs sent in will not be returned unless called for.

One of the enthusiastic candidates whose host of loyal friends are determined to put him across a winner is George F. Nichols of Everett. He is a member of Palestine Lodge of Masons, Odd Fellows, Board of Trade, Elks, the Veteran Firemen and many other organizations.

Race for Boys May Go on Rowing Card

The National Association of Amateur Oarsmen plans adding an event for schoolboys—an intercity high school eight-oared race—to its list of annual features.

President James Pilkington is in hearty sympathy with the proposition and prophesies it stands an excellent chance of being adopted when the executive committee meets in advance of the coming regatta at Springfield.

Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Springfield, Worcester, Detroit, Duluth, Ithaca, New Rochelle, Jersey City and Holyoke are just some of the cities particularly desirous of having the boys' race arranged.

Rudolph Off to Philadelphia.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—Pitcher Rudolph was shipped to Philadelphia, where the Braves open Friday, by Manager Stallings last night. He is ticketed to pitch the first game of the series.

Quigley O. K.; Will Be Back on Friday

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Umpire Quigley of the National League's staff, injured by an explosion of gas in the umpires' dressing room in the Cubs' park Monday, is sitting up in his bed at the Cook County Hospital today.

He expects to be discharged today or tomorrow and be able to resume his duties in Brooklyn Friday. He is scheduled to work in that city if his condition allows him to.

Boston Coppers Cop.

The Boston police baseball team add little trouble beating the Newton police, 10 to 2. Pat Connolly and George Mahoney were the Boston battery.

BRAVES IN FINAL WESTERN GAMES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—With the proper weather on tap the Braves and Cardinals will hook up in a twin bill on Robison Field this afternoon.

An early start will be made, providing it clears up and the big show is staged, as Skipper Stallings is particularly anxious upon beating it Eastward on the 5 o'clock train. This train is a sumptuous one and will land the Braves in Philadelphia, where they hook up in a very important series commencing Friday, by good time tomorrow evening on that all hands can get a fitting night's rest.

The Braves have prospered much better on the trip than most "fans" think. Including the victory that came in the one-day visit to Brooklyn prior to coming West, the Champions have captured eight of their fourteen, perhaps since hitting the road.

It was only because four of the six reverses were bunched and just recently that the Braves are generally credited with having fallen down on the tour. The Evers scandal also tended in giving the kneeling Birds a chance to chirp. As matters stand the Braves are doing very nicely, thank you, standing within three and one-half games of first place and evidently fit to pull their annual hurrah finish.

Evers came back in on-the-level, hope-to-die fashion in Monday's matinee, after pulling a bad one Sunday, and declares that the fans at home can bank on him going on high and doing his level best the rest of the route. Yes, the magnates had Evers cross and crabbed for a few days, in fact. Jawn was as mad as a hornet.

Evers figures he has done a whole lot for the National League and thinks it unsportsmanlike of Ebbets and Dreyfuss to have gone gunning for him. Against his odds, he has made a plucky fight for the Braves this Summer.

First one of his children died. Then he had pneumonia. Three days after the curtain went up on the show he broke a leg. Returning to his position long before he was really physically fit, and being in the spot where he had to do everything possible to pull the Braves through—Joe went deep down in the cellar when he got back into the game—Jawn was as far as he could with the scrappy stuff, with the result that he got in with Percy Tener, as well as the umps.

"All that's in the game" states Evers, "and I'm not complaining. But the Trojan is fully disposed of what Ebbets and Dreyfuss tried to pull when he was down before Jake and all the scandal and trouble is ancient history, claims Evers, and he's in to stick it out to the finish.

Ragan and Tyler and Doak and Robinson are the pitching pairs slated to do slab duty in today's double header.

Tener Sees Evers, But Won't Chatter

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11. — President Tener of the National League, spent the day here in his whirl around the circuit, leaving on a late train for Cincinnati. As the Braves had a day off, owing to rain, Tener got quite a lot of Manager Stallings and his players. He also passed greetings with Johnny Evers, but refused to be interviewed in reference to any of the Trojan's recent statements.

Tener stated that he hated the "fault-finder," but had no sympathy for the hard-worker—the player who has his heart in his work at all times. Which is taken to include Evers. Tener says he has told his umpires to allow a certain amount of talking and coaching from the bench.

Mr. Pete Compton, Hurdler, Copped by the Braves

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—Outfielder Pete Compton, who became a headliner a fortnight ago when he jumped the Kansas City American Association club for the St. Louis Federals, has been secured to bolster the Boston Braves in their pennant dash.

Compton joins the Braves today and may play in the double-header against the Cardinals. It is reported that the Braves gave Tebeau, a young pitcher Stallings had planted, as well as an outfielder and cash, for Compton.

Weak hitting has been the Braves' chief fault all Summer and Stallings believes Compton will put the Champions on a spurt that will carry them to the top.

It will be remembered that it was but a short time ago that Compton was secured from the Reds and Herb was an important factor in winning the pennant and the world's title for the Boston club.

Compton's A. A. mark for the season in an even 100 games is 342. He not only has one smashing brigade, but was likewise high when it came to long-distance slapping. His long belts for Kansas City are eighteen doubles, nine triples and nine home runs. "Pete" was a St. Louis Brownie the last time he played under the big tent.

Federal Party Here to Inspect Braves' Field

A party of Federal League officials and club owners are in Boston today as guests of James E. Gaffney, president of the Braves. They will inspect the Braves' new clubhouse, buildings and grounds, and it is expected that C. B. Comstock, who has been selected as architect for the new Federal League grounds in New York, will pick up some of the newer new ideas for his work.

The party includes President James A. Gilmore, H. E. Sinclair, president of the Newark club, George S. Ward, vice-president Brookfeds, and C. B. Comstock.

Baseball Over the Wire.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 11.—The Brooklyn league pennant fever is at a stage to a dollar today.

WORCESTER, Aug. 11.—Outfielder Mahoney of Lewiston has inked his name securely to the same with Worcester.

TWO MORE GAMES WITH BROWNLEGS

Another double-header today, but the Red Sox can stand it. They have the pitchers on tap; the Browns have not. First game at 1:30.

The daily rain storm was a trifle late in showing up yesterday, but at 1:30 it put in an appearance. We may expect today's shower somewhere about 5 o'clock, and perhaps next week it will not appear until the crowd has gone home. But it will probably come every day, no matter what the weather man may say. You can't keep a squirrel on the ground.

Pitchers for the Red Sox today are likely to be Leonard and Collins. Possibly Gregg may work one game. He wants to go in the worst way, and if Manager Carrigan were sure about his control, he would give the desired permission. But Gregg's control is not of the A1 variety.

The Browns have James and Hamilton to spring on the Boston public. Rickey is partial to left-handers and has an many (or more) of the sort fingers on his staff as "Uncle Sid" hosts of.

The Browns are putting up quite a fight for a team that has no show for the ordinance. They do not look like a bad ball team by any means, anyway, they are not to be trifled with.

Baldwin and Saylor Clash Next Tuesday

Matty Baldwin, the Charlestown lightweight and Milburn "Young" Saylor of Indianapolis clash in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night. Baldwin and Saylor have already met twice. Honors were even in each encounter.

The rest of next week's program follows: Howard McRae of Cambridge vs. Johnny Noonan of Dorchester, eight rounds; Joe Vincent of the North End vs. Jean Mallow of Revere, six rounds. Battling Carroll of Lawrence vs. Harry Long of the South End, six rounds.

THE RABBITS' COLUMN By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—We loafed on account of rain yesterday, but scanned the National League scores just the same. The race really tightened as ar esult of yesterday's games. Boston, Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago are about as close as four teams could be and the Dodgers and Phillies have no lead to brag about.

It's a tough race, stranger, a tough race.

Evers is feeling pretty good again and I'll bet he will win a lot of games for us yet, besides saving a few.

In his quest for material with which to bolster his staggering staff, Hugh Jennings has been tipped to one twinkle-wipe asunde too good to be true. This young man's name is not divulged, but he works for the Ntarch Chunk, Pa. club.

According to his boosters this fellow has so much speed that he has to be warmed up for forty minutes before his arm, so that the game will not lack interest. Walter Johnson, in that league, probably would have to start working the night before.

There are few instances where a player after a couple of years' playing in the major leagues, during which he proves himself a weak hitter never improves in this respect enough to be numbered among the good hitters in fast company.

Ade Killifer, however, differs from this rule. Killifer went to Washington in 1909, figuring in the deal which gave the Detroit Club Jim Delehanty. He was used for utility purposes, but did not seem to be more than a very ordinary hitter.

He drifted into the minors, where he played the outfield and developed into an excellent hitter. That this was not a fluke is proved by the fact that Killifer has been one of the best hitters in the National League for the past two years.

The climax of the Federal League performances for 1913 has come. "Major league ball" for 10 cents. That will, so it is announced by President Gilmore himself, charge 10 cents at their wonderful park in Harrison, N. J., and if they get any money that way, may attend the experiment to other cities.

"Major league baseball for 10 cents!" Players who have been recently approached in regard to the great park which is to be made on the National and American leagues will possibly think about this offer when that respect "major league" proposition, and they look around for the good safe reliable paycheck that is to be theirs from the first and fifteenth of every month.

The inconsistencies of the great American amusement are emphasized in that league, by Oakley of Charley Stengel. When the Brooklyn team was surprising the universe, Dutch couldn't locate the pill with a microscope, and the fans said, and the experts confirmed their opinion, that when he did use his bat effectively there would be nothing to it but the Robins.

Stengel has recovered the full power of his orbs, and just notice, please, how true runs the course of the grand old game.

SANDY IS EASY FOR M'VEY IN ATLAS BOUT

ATLAS A. A. RESULTS.

Sam McVey won from Sandy Ferguson, eight rounds. Referee Powers stopping the contest.

Patsy DeLucca defeated Billy Galvin, eight rounds.

Teddy Murphy defeated Johnny Ware, six rounds.

Monty Hall knocked out Joe Brown, six rounds.

SANDY FERGUSON, the Chelsea heavyweight, is today convinced that he is no longer able to hold his own with the leading men in his boxing division. The "Stubborn Child" met Sam McVey at the Atlas A. A. last night. He managed to keep going for seven rounds, but in the eighth session blew up and Referee Paul Powers intervened and halted the uneven contest when Sandy was on the verge of being knocked out.

Close to 3,000 fans witnessed the bout. It was the largest crowd which has attended a boxing match at the arena this year. Most of the fans want to the Atlas Club's quarters believing that the whirl would have an abrupt ending, and they were surprised when Ferguson managed to last until the eighth session.

The Chelsea boxer did better than was expected. He fought hard at times and slashed out with left and right hand punches. The big fellow, however, lacked the snap and vim which characterized his work a decade ago. He was but a mere shell of his former self and it was only a question of time when McVey would score with a knockout smash.

MCVEY did not extend himself at any time during the contest. He realized that he outclassed his opponent and went about his task in a business like manner. He also had some consideration for the big crowd on hand for the festivities. Most of the fans were rooting for Ferguson and McVey gave them a chance to enjoy themselves. The negro heavyweight also seemed to get considerable amusement out of the contest and kept laughing during the greater part of the bout.

FERGUSON was beaten, but he put up a game clean fight. He did not attempt any illegal boxing, while he fought back hard on several occasions when he was rocked with straight left and right hand blows. He was knocked down four times during the eight rounds, but always managed to get up on his feet again. He was standing up when Referee Powers stopped the contest. It was well that he did so Sandy was in bad condition and would probably have been knocked out as soon as McVey landed another solid punch.

MCVEY scored his first knockdown in the first round when he sent Ferguson to the mat with a sharp left hook. It looked like a knockout then and there for the Chelsea boxer, but he was on his feet again at the count of five. He lasted through the round by holding and by occasionally shooting a cut left hand punch.

McVey also had things all his own way in the second, third and fourth rounds. Near the close of the fourth frame, Sandy rushed his burley opponent and almost pushed him through the ropes.

THERE was a little more action in the fifth session when Ferguson went down for the count of nine. He was also down for the nine count in the sixth frame. McVey also played with his opponent in the seventh session and scored another knockdown in the eighth chapter. The referee then halted festivities.

PATSY DELUCCA of the West End defeated Billy Galvin of South Boston in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. Galvin was almost knocked out and only managed to go the distance by holding DeLucca's arms and hands with the grip of a drowning man. It was a very slow bout.

Henry Hall of Cambridge stopped Bill Brown of Cambridge in six rounds while Teddy Murphy defeated Johnny Ware.

Ha-Ha! Marsans Is Asking for Relief

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11. — Armando Marsans, the Cuban outfielder, who purchased the Cincinnati Reds for the St. Louis Feds, and who has never played a game with the Kilmorettes, though drawing his salary at regular intervals, has died through his attorneys in the Federal District Court asking dissolution of the injunction which restrains him from playing with any club save the Cincinnati Nationals. Arguments on the motion will be presented tomorrow.

The Cincinnati club is under bond of $15,000 to indemnify the St. Louis Feds should the latter win the case. In the motion for dismissal Marsans alleges his contract with Cincinnati expired last October.

Saylor Is Run Out by Akron Referee

AKRON, O., Aug. 11. — Milburn (Corona) Saylor of Indianapolis, was disqualified in the fourth round of his twelve-round bout with Johnny Griffiths, the local lightweight, who was wanted by Boston promoters for a set-to with Gilbert Gallant.

Saylor was guilty of hitting in the clinches and a lot of other rough stuff, and, after being repeatedly warned, was ordered to beat it. The boys had agreed to box clean rules.

DIDIER FAVORITE TO WIN BIG RACE

TONIGHT'S RACE CARD.

25-MILE MOTOR-PACED MATCH RACE—Didier Linart Aimargent, Belgium, vs. Leon Didier, France.

SPECIAL TANDEM RACE.

AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL EVENTS.

Victor Linart of Belgium and Leon Didier of France meet in their $1,000 match race at the Revere Cycle Track tonight. The event has created so much interest that Manager Val Butler has made preparations to handle a record-breaking crowd.

Tonight's contest will be ridden over a 25-mile course, behind motor pace. A mile will be allowed for a change of wheels in case of accident to bike or motor. These are the same rules that governed the first race between Linart and Didier, and they held good for this evening.

Although Linart was the favorite in the first clash, Didier has been made the choice in tonight's event. The reason for this can be traced back to the fact that Didier was leading the Belgian when he met with the accident which put him out of the game for three weeks.

The "fans" should not overlook the fact, however, that Linart, while a slow starter at times, is a strong finisher always, and it's hard telling what he might have done had Didier been able to continue.

The pacemakers will wear new suits tonight. Each will have fitting outfits specially made for this meet. Linart claims that the uniform now worn at the track act as a wind shield for the rider, and in order that Linart will have no excuse to offer if he is defeated, Manager Butler has ordered the new attire.

GOLF GOSSIP

JESSE GUILFORD ESTABLISHED a new record of sixty-eight for the Wollaston course in his match with E. M. Taft. Guilford was generally credited with a sixty-seven. But those who accepted this figure forgot the rule governing hitting a ball on the putting green.

ON THE EIGHTH GREEN GUILford caromed his ball off Taft's ball from a distance of ten feet. This gave him a three in match play, but added a stroke in medal. Hence, the sixty-seven.

J. A. CAMPBELL OF WOLLASTON, is trying out the new "skipperina" shot invented and promoted by H. M. Wilder and W. S. Stickney in a four-ball friendly foursome at Wollaston. Campbell's ball took fourteen distinct and separate hops before it disappeared beneath the surface of the pond that must be carried from tee on the fourth hole. Campbell is a strong man, but it would have required three more hops to have landed the ball once again on mother earth.

ARTHUR GOODALE IS ONE OF the best putters at Wollaston. His form in this department may not be impressive, but he gets results. It is rumored Goodale doesn't wear a hat for it would surely topple off.

QUITE THE REVERSE OF GOODale's style is that of F. G. Thayer. Those two players were in the quintet of its scorers on the first day of the Press tournament in which two could get into the match play of the championship flight, while the other three must drop into the second division. Thayer literally sits down in mid golf-ball putting. Still he got into the big division.

SOUND BODIES

—By JULIAN HAWTHORNE—

This is the thirty-first of a series of articles on "Sound Bodies" written exclusively for the Boston AMERICAN by Julian Hawthorne. These articles will be continued in the AMERICAN on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

THE FROG EXERCISE.

Now the frog exercise!

The title suggests what it is; and considering the results it produces on the human leg, it has always surprised me that the frog, who is always at it, should have legs which are esteemed a delicacy by gourmets on account of their tenderness and succulence. You would expect them to be as tough and wiry as a bunch of cat-gut.

The exercise is also distinguished by the fact that it is one of the chief features of the career of the cadets at West Point. Until, and unless, they can do the frog movement for a good many minutes at a stretch, they are not considered competent to protect their country in war. A cadet who can keep it up for half an hour is a major-general in embryo; if for a whole hour, he is likely to be field marshal or commander-in-chief. We are not informed as to the record in this direction of General Grant, but it must have been stupendous. The cadets are so keen about it that they are said to compel the novices at the academy to practice it to the point of exhaustion; but unless you have the army in view, you may stop, for the present, at our old twenty times.

Arms akimbo, and while doing the exercise, keep the upper part of the body straight. Squat down abruptly on your heels, allowing the last to rise slightly as you descend. When you are well down the back part of the thigh will be in contact with the calf of the leg. The moment you feel that contact, rise to first position by the effort of the front muscles of the thighs, and without any movement of the hands from the hips.

Apart from the effort of the lift, your chief trouble will be to avoid toppling over backward or forward; this is because you are not yet expert in keeping your poise, and because, in squatting down, you did not keep your body straight—that is, your centre of gravity got away from you. Your centre of gravity is not the same as gravitation, though gravitation has something to do with it. If you look at a squad of West Pointers doing this exercise you would never suspect that such a thing as centre of gravity or gravitation either existed. But when you are doing it yourself you will awake to the facts.

It is a splendid exercise, whether or not it actually creates commanders-in-chief. But that a frog should still remain merely a frog, after so many thousands of years of it, still remains an enigma.

After a few months of it you will no longer find the stairs of the elevated railway stations formidable, and you will float through the undulations of the tango like a dream.

RING RESULTS

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 11.—Joe Chick won the decision over Carl Kerr, the Washington welterweight at the Central social and athletic club at the end of ten rattling rounds. Young La Rue of Beverly won from Young Burns of Salem in six rounds.

Jack's Phantom Bet Did Not Bother Willard

Just before the Havana fight Jack Johnson blew into a hotel down there and offered to bet $10 to $1, in thousands, that he would win. Before any individual of the crowd that made for him could reach him, he had packed his roll and was off.

This is only one of the many interesting incidents of the preparation for the recent battle which made ring history. This, and others, are snappily told in tomorrow's chapter of the new champion's autobiography in the AMERICAN.

And Jess gives the negro a lot of credit for lasting as long as he did.

Gallant to Battle at Atlas Aug. 24

Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea lightweight, will meet either Johnny Griffiths of Akron, Ohio, or Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn in a twelve-round bout at the Atlas A. A. August 24.

The management also announces that a benefit will be tendered Steve McDonald, the old-time heavyweight, at the Triple A organization, August 27.

SIDELIGHTS on SPORTS By A·H·C·Mitchell

CLARENCE PARKER, who played right field for the Browns most of the afternoon, is a Somerville boy. He won the first game with a hit and then saved it by a catch. He went to Philadelphia the other day to report to Manager Rickey and arrived two days before the Browns showed up. Wishing to get a little practice he went to Shibe Park, and, borrowing a uniform from Connie Mack, practiced with the Athletics for two mornings.

The first day he made a couple of two-baggers and after practice Ira Thomas, Connie's right-hand man buttonholed Parker and asked him to sign a Philadelphia contract. Parker had to tell him he was already engaged.

Parker was "dug up" by Professor Kelacher, manager of the Lowell team. When he arrived in Boston he went out to Somerville to see his folks, but found the house locked up and learned that his parents were up in Maine on a vacation.

WE ought to call Sisler, the new man on the St. Louis team, Ty-Cobb-Sisler in remarks of a mighty good ball player. He plays first base with the best of them and is likely to develop into one of the best hitters in the big league. When he connects he usually drives them far into centre field. He bats left handed.

KOOB, the St. Louis pitcher, who fooled the Red Sox in the first game, pronounces his name to rhyme with robe — at least, that is what he says. Maybe it is really pronounced to rhyme with boob.

THE Red Sox lost a notch to the White Sox and Tigers as a result of yesterday's games. Both the contenders won, so they gain half a game on the leading team. That's all right though. Walter Johnson is likely to go against the Tigers soon and take their measure.

IT is thought Jennings' men are playing on their nerves and when their pitchers begin to crumble under the strain—if they do—the whole team will go bad. Jennings is still making desperate efforts to land another good twirler for the pennant fight, however, just he hasn't made any promotions to the Red Sox. Mason, Carrigan and Lannin would give Hughey the loud laugh if the freckle-face manager tried to secure one of the Red Sox twirlers.

CLARENCE WALKER, the centre fielder, thinks pretty well of his right arm—and justly so—despite his fielding leads him in attempt impossible plays now and then. He tried one of them yesterday but the ball went to the grandstand.

A young player named Langdon, formerly of the University of Pittsburgh, was expected to join the Browns two or three days ago, but he is lost, strayed or stolen. Manager Rickey hasn't heard from him yet.

NOT since Jack Stivetts' time has Boston boasted of a pitcher who could pickle the ball the way "Babe" Ruth can. "Babe" doesn't always hit 'em, but when he does—Zowie.

THE triple play put over by the Browns in the first inning of the second game is they say the first one ever made in Boston so far as the big leagues are concerned.

The old South End grounds did National League business for more than forty-four years, but no one can seem to recall a triple play there.

Certainly there was none at the Huntington Avenue grounds, and it's a million to one that Fenway Park never saw one before the Browns pulled their triple play yesterday. The play was like this:

With Speaker on first and Janvrin on third Hobby died to Shotten, who threw to first in time to double up Speaker. Sisler then threw to the plate and Severoid nailed Janvrin trying to score.

McLoughlin Victor in 3d Round Match

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 11. — Play as narrowed down to the semi-finals in the play for the right to challenge for the Achelis trophy. Maurice E. McLoughlin beat S. H. Voshell in the third round, 6—1, 6—2.

Harold Throckmorton remains in the tournament by defeating F. C. Inman, 6—2, 6—4. Ward Dawson won his match from B. S. Prentiss, 6—4, 6—1, and Karl Behr beat Hugh Tallant.

WHEN Gunsdorf reached the courtyard the gates were half open. On strong steel brackets fixed to the back of the car were two spare rims with inflated tires. These formed a resting place for Gunsdorf's feet and a grip for his hands. But the first forward leap of the car, followed by a swerve to the left, almost threw him off.

Shots were fired. The car went over something soft that screamed and that remained in the street after the car had passed, and thwacked like a newly-landed fish.

Gunsdorf stood upon the spare tires and clung to them, and the lights of New York whirled by.

The scene of the riot was far behind. Up Fifth avenue the car raced. It was that hour before dark when in the Summer traffic was light, and the face of the great Gordon Barclay at the window of the car was enough to make even the boldest traffic cop think twice.

Through Central Park, out Seventh avenue, across McComb's Dam Bridge, up Jerome avenue, through Fordham to the Pelham Parkway, into New Rochelle and out through Mamaroneck, Rye, Portchester, the car flew. And like grim death, his purpose never swerving, Gunsdorf clung to the spare tires. Vengeance is not man's. "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord."

The old fishing town of Giddings was dark as sin. The financiers, conferring, had determined to make this, rather than Missaquid, their point of departure. They would be too late to catch the last boat for Bartell's. Giddings, with Missaquid, formed the base of a triangle of which Gull Island was the apex. Therefore, if they could here charter some craft to convey them to the island, there would be a great saving of time.

The car ran half way through the little town, turned a right angle and descended to the wharves, and here, in the darkness, stopped. Gunsdorf was the first to alight; he slipped into the shelter of a shed that smelt of fish, and flung himself to the ground.

Why didn't he shoot down the financiers as they alighted from the car? His hands were so cramped from gripping the tires he could not have held or pointed a gun; they were shaking like leaves of poplar trees in a wind. He was in acute physical pain.

But, lying on the ground, writhing with exhaustion, he began to recover little by little from the ordeal through which he had passed, and he was able to keep an eye on the car and on the shadowy men whom he hated, and to listen to what they had to say to each other and to the fisherman whom they routed from his bed, and who finally, for a prodigious sum of money, consented to venture out in the easterly storm that was brewing and carry them and their luggage to Gull Island.

The name of his little schooner was the Mary Nye. She was at the end of the long wharf, half unloaded. No, he had given up fishing; there was more money in coasting. They couldn't start at once; he would have to get his crew together—two men and a boy. Had they really come all the way from New York? They must be hard set. Better come to the house. He'd rout his wife out of bed, and she'd give them coffee.

Barclay gave some orders to his driver, and much money; also he gave much money to the other man on the box, and he shook hands with them both and thanked them for their devotion to him, and told them that their future would be his care.

Then the car went one one way and the financiers and the fisherman went another, and presently Gunsdorf, doubled half over, like a man crippled with rheumatism, rose from his hiding place and hobbled off in a third.

The Mary Nye lay in the lee of the long wharf, near the end. She was a dirty little ship. Amidship was a hold, formerly used as a container for codfish; it still stank of them. The hatchway giving access to this hold was open, and into it Gunsdorf descended. It seemed to him, after exploring the schooner from stern to stem, to offer the best means of concealment. The little cabin aft was cleaner. It would be the choice of the triumvirate for their own quarters.

Gunsdorf was half crazy with fatigue. In a far corner of the hold he found a pile of sacking and flung himself down on it. But there was something hard among the sacks that hurt him. He groped for this and found that it was a powerful, two-handed augur, fixed with an inch and a half bit.

He pushed it to one side and in a moment was sound asleep.

Organized Insect Armies

The Mysterious 17-Year Locust Who Lives but a Few Weeks Above Ground.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

IF our American minds were as subterraneously superstitious as those of the ancient Egyptians, we would worship a sacred beetle, too, and an even more remarkable insect than the famous scarab of the Nile. It would be the periodical cicada, or the "seventeen-year locust," as it is popularly called. Its form would be carved in jewels of jasper, agate, card and carnelian and worn for a charm and as a token of the eternal cycle that leads through life to death and back again through death to life.

The seventeen-year cicada is in some respects the most wonderful insect known on the earth. For one thing, it is the longest-lived. But what a life! For more than sixteen consecutive years an ugly grub, dwelling underground; then a livid, six-legged horror, crawling a few feet up the trunk of a tree and anchoring itself with barbed claws into the bark, next sputtering open along its abdomenal back as if the sun had at the mere sight smitten it with instantaneous death, and finally a bronze-winged, buzzing, butting, elephant-bodied fly, making a noise like a toy sawmill and winding up its ephemeral career within two or three short weeks! Sixteen years grubbing underground for only that!

The male cicada is the serenader. He has in his body two drums, covered with membranes, some of which are as brilliant and transparent as mica, and which are set into vibration by special muscles. These produce a buzzing, dreamy noise, which singularly accords with the slumberous spirit of a Summer afternoon, and forms, from the human point of view, the only excuse for the cicada's existence. But there are persons who would not grant even this excuse.

The female is no lazy, idling music-maker, like her husband, but a doer of damage to trees. She is armed with an instrument that has been described once for all by Dr. T. W. Harris. It consists of a sheath having "three parts in close contact with each other; namely, two outer ones grooved on the inside and enlarged at the tips, which externally are beset with small teeth like a saw, and a central, spear-pointed borer, which plays between the other two.

"Thus this instrument has the power and does the work of both an awl and a double-edged saw, or rather of two keyhole saws cutting opposite to each other."

Readers, if there be any, who have never seen this remarkable insect, have an opportunity to make its acquaintance this Summer almost anywhere in the northern and central States, from the Hudson to the Mississippi. The present invasion, according to the Department of Agriculture's entomologists, will not be marked by any great numerical strength of the cicada armies, sprung from the ground like the dragon brood of argonautic Jason, but rather by the wide expanse of country covered, for the seventeen-year horde that appears this year is territorially the most extensive of all the thirty broods into which cicadas are divided.

Here is another wonderful thing about these strange insects. Entomologists have discovered that there are two races of the periodical cicada, a seventeen-year race and a thirteen-year race. Each race consists of a number of successive broods of hordes — seventeen of the seventeen-year race and thirteen of the thirteen-year race, or thirty broods in all. Every brood has its own particular year for appearing above ground, and its own chosen territory, and no other brood of the same race ever appears in a year that belongs to another. This year's seventeen-year horde bears, in the entomological index, the Roman numeral VI. The latest and best studies of these wonderful creatures have been made by Dr. C. L. Marlatt, of the United States Bureau of Entomology.

The earliest recorded appearances of the seventeen-year cicada was in 1633, at Plymouth, Mass., when they greatly astonished the Pilgrim Fathers. In Nathaniel Morton's "New England's Memorial" the sudden apparition of the insects is quaintly described: "There was a numerous company of flies which were like for bigness unto wasps and bumblebees. They came out of little holes in the ground, and did eat up green things, and made such a constant yelling noise as made the woods ring of them, and ready to deafen the hearers."

The Disease and the Remedy

Mrs. Browser, meaningly—Tasked the doctor if whiskey was good for colds, and he said "No." Mr. Browser—Well, I don't believe I've got a cold. It's something else. Did the doctor mention what whiskey was good for?

Cadum Ointment is for eczema, pimples, sores, eruptions, rashes, scaly skin, chafings, blotches, etc.

The New Crownless Hat

DOES the crownless hat reign supreme in your wardrobe yet? If not, beware, fair ladies, it is on its way and is bound to captivate you with its fascinating charm, according to Miss Adele Rowland, who plays the leading feminine role in "Nobody Home," which is soon to be seen at the Wilbur Theatre.

"The brimless hat," says Miss Rowland, "has held Paris in fashion's hand for several seasons to the extent of ruining the hair of numberless women through its lack of ventilation. Now, however, the crownless hat, which is a very welcome visitor, is here to stay, to sun the hair, to give it much-needed fresh air and to bring fashionable women into closer touch with nature.

"If you will look about you at the women who do not wear hats, whether from choice or compulsion, you will observe that they are the possessors of most luxuriant hair. This is not because of any especial care, but because of the contact with the fresh air. It is quite natural for the hair to die and the scalp to become unhealthy when we bind our heads in 'hot boxes' of hats which some mad designer decrees we should wear in order to be in fashion.

"When my Paris milliner sent me the crownless hat which I wear in 'Nobody Home' and which is nothing but a flat sailor brim of gold lace with not trimming other than an ostrich feather sticking at a jaunty angle up the back, I realized that my crowned hat days were over. I have never enjoyed anything so much in all my life. The hat has all the charm of the most beautiful models without the heinous weight of the crowned hats, and it is extremely comfortable and very becoming.

"The first day I walked on the street with my crownless hat I succeeded in shocking the blase New Yorkers, who stared at me as if I were an escaped lunatic, but it was only a matter of two weeks when many other sensible women had adopted the fashion. One afternoon a very severe old lady ventured to inform me that I had lost the crown of my hat. It was so funny that I was just about to laugh when I saw how serious she was, so I thanked her. She sympathized with me for more than a block and offered to help me out of the difficulty by offering the use of a black muffler which she had tied about her neck.

Miss Adele Rowland, a charming actress in "Nobody Home," who will soon let Boston folk see how she looks in her new fantastic headgear.

Suspicion Confirmed

A clergyman tells a story of a fellow pastor who had waxed eloquent on the interest of foreign missions one Sunday and was surprised, on entering the village shop during the week, to be greeted with marked coldness by the old dame who kept it.

On leaving the shop, the good woman produced a quarter from a drawer, and throwing it down before him, said:

"I marked that coin and put it in the plate last Sunday, and threw it to back in my shoe. I knowed well them poor Africans never got the money."

The Ideal Home

She had been a cook in all sorts of houses, both large boarding establishments and small private residences, and had often noticed how much more quarrelling and bickering there usually was in the latter than in the former.

At last she struck a house where all was peace.

"I suppose, ma'am, that these young ladies and gentlemen are really all your own children?" she asked her mistress one day.

"Certainly they are, Mary," replied the astonished lady. "Why do you ask?"

"Well, ma'am, nobody'd have thought it. They're just as polite to one another as if they were complete strangers!"

Being Worth While

One Thing to Bear in Mind, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by Star Company.

WHATEVER your position in life, however dissatisfied with your work and recompense, you want to remember one fact—you can be "worth while."

You can make yourself worthy of better things, and when you have become fully worthy of a change for the better, when you have absolutely outgrown your present environment, a change will come.

You may have no time for self-improvement, as you may be working from early morn till late at night at some distasteful labor, and you may tell me that it is impossible to grow or make progress under such conditions.

But watch your opportunities. You are in hourly contact with your fellow workers. Watch yourself to see that you do not show selfishness in your treatment of them.

In the place where you live or board, in the street cars, in the shops where you go for your supplies, how are you treating your fellows? Are you as unselfish, or polite, or considerate, as you wish others to be to you? You think Mercopoly and Greed are responsible for your troubles. You are overworked and ill-paid because those in higher places have no thought for others. But are you showing thought for others?

Look back over this day. Have you been helpful and kind and considerate toward every one? Did you start the day with a loving word and a smile at home? Did you enter your place of business with a cheerful air and make everybody feel better by your presence?

Or did you carry a cold, surly or irritable personality into the room that fell like a wet blanket on those about you? Were you patient and polite when you went shopping? Did you remember that the sales men and women were needing encouragement and sympathy in their work just as much as you do in yours?

Did you think to say a pleasant word to the newsboy and bootblack, or did you forget that they had as much right to consideration in this world as yourself?

If you have thought of nothing and nobody today but yourself, your own troubles, hardships and needs, then rest assured you have not fitted yourself to fill a higher position or receive better pay.

The world wants better men and women more than it wants better governments. All changes which can be brought about, in any way of reform, will never make the world a good place to live in until you and I, and every living man and woman, set to work to improve ourselves.

Great changes are on the way. Great abuses are about to pass. Unexpected events are near. But no one of these changes, nor all of them, can materially benefit humanity unless individuals fit themselves to be better men and women.

Do You Know That—

In the Middle Ages people in England wore the beaks, or points of their shoes so long that they encumbered themselves in walking and were forced to tie them up to their knees.

Guns with a bore of twelve inches or more can only fire ninety full charges. They are then worn out, to be sent out and have to be sent to the foundry to have a new one inserted.

When one of the enemy is captured he is disarmed by taking the bolt from his rifle. His bayonet is confiscated, but he will be left to carry his ammunition and rifle, for both are useless.

The Romans punished parricides by first scouring the criminal, then sewing him up in a leathern sack, made air-tight, with a live dog, a cock, a viper and an ape, and thus casting him into the sea.

Methodist ministers of Ohio have banished all clocks from their churches on the ground that their presence tends to distract congregations.

In ancient Greece amethysts were worn around the neck to prevent intoxication; hence the name, which means "unintoxicated."

George III. of England took dinner at 4 o'clock, George IV. at 6, William IV. at 7, and Queen Victoria and her successors at 8.

Pointed china are sold by characters readers to denote selfishness, while round china denote love of pleasure.

Crinolines have frequently occasioned loss of life by coming in contact with fire and machinery.

Actors and actresses never act together in China. They play in separate companies of their own.

Weaving was practiced in China more than a thousand years before it was known in Europe.

Makes the Eyes Clear, White and Beautiful

If your eyes ever get bloodshot and yellow you can clear them up in half a minute and make them bright and sparkling by dropping a single drop of pure liquid okulite in each eye. It's wonderful how quickly this prescription works and its use is entirely safe as it contains no cocaine, belladonna or harmful drug of any kind or boracic acid, and it cannot possibly smart or injure the eyes. This prescription is fine to use before going out in the evening to make the eyes clear and white. Ritter-Jaynes and leading druggists everywhere have it put up and ready for use. A great many leading eye specialists endorse and recommend this same prescription and use it in their own practice.—Advertisement.

What have you done today to improve yourself?

SAYS SHE NEVER HAS FELT BETTER

Miss Sarah McDonald, of No. 80 Spark St., Suffered With Nervous Indigestion.

"Forward to nature" is the slogan that is being used in the Boston Plant Juice campaign. It is expensive of good, for there is no tonic that comes as near putting back into men and women the vital forces that have left them by reason of sickness and overwork. There is no theory about the benefits derived from Plant Juice. Every day local people come out with signed statements relating the benefits they have received from taking Plant Juice.

Recently there was received the following statement from Miss Sarah McDonald, who resides at No. 80 Spark street. Miss McDonald has lived in this city for 27 years, and is a well-known lady. She states:

"I have suffered from nervous indigestion for the last year and had dizzy spells, was all blotted with gas and had no appetite. I suffered with rheumatism at times and limbs were terribly swollen. My liver was torpid most of the time and my food did me no good. I had tried a number of remedies, but did not get any relief from any of them until I commenced to take Plant Juice. I have been taking it now for the past two weeks and I can say that I don't have any more aches or pains. I eat and sleep well, and I feel that it has cured me, for I never felt better in my life than I do now."

There are numerous symptoms of this troubles that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any of the following may denote affections of the stomach: indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick, throbbing headache, poor circulation, night sweats, that tired feeling, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

WILLARD ON THE CHAMPS AFTER JOHN L.

By JESS WILLARD.

Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt. All All Rights Reserved.

NOT only did Sullivan learn that a punch on the point of the jaw would produce temporary insensibility, but he had the punch. He could land the sleep producer with his left, but a savage jolt with the right was his favorite.

They can talk all they please about Belcher, Jackson, Pearce, Cully, Spring, Cribb and Sayers, but there never was a fighter in the world like John L. Sullivan.

What other champion in history ever went about the country meeting a man every night and offering a purse to anyone who could stand before him for four rounds? John L. Sullivan did just that, whipping over a hundred hard customers on those terms.

Tug Wilson, a tough Englishman, was imported to take Sullivan's measure. John L. failed to knock him out in four rounds, but Tug hustled back to England rather than meet the Boston Boy a second time.

Robert Slade, the Manchester, lasted three rounds. Alf Greenfield, another English importation, two rounds, and so on down the line. The one exception was Charlie Mitchell, the English champion.

The police stopped the first battle—Sullivan-Mitchell—in the second round, and when they came together again Sullivan was too drunk to enter the ring. It was the beginning of the end, for not even Sullivan's iron frame could stand up against constant dissipation.

In 1887, Jake Kilrain of New York had reached a point where he felt that he could whip the mighty Sullivan. In his four years of fighting he had never lost a battle, for, like Sullivan, he knew the secret of the knock-out blow.

Kilrain was one of the best all around athletes who ever entered the ring. He stood 5 feet 11 inches and weighed 220 pounds. He could run like a deer and had been a champion oarsman.

The men behind Kilrain's challenge were Sullivan's bitter enemies and he paid no attention to it. Thereupon the Police Gazette announced that Kilrain was champion and presented him with a diamond belt.

In 1887, directly after the gift, Kilrain went to England and took on Jem Smith, the "near" champion. It was the third international fight and took place on Isle St. Pierre, France. The men fought with bare knuckles and under London prize ring rules, and after 106 rounds of fighting a draw was called on account of darkness.

Nobody, either in England or the United States, took Kilrain's championship seriously. A year later Sullivan went over to meet Charlie Mitchell, the real English champion. The battle was fought in Chantilly, France. The ring was pitched on the turf and a cold rain chilled the fighters and made the ring a regular boghole.

For thirty-nine rounds Sullivan chased Mitchell over the 24-foot ring. Mitchell's lighter weight, instead of proving a handicap, really proved his salvation. After 3 hours and 11 minutes of racing the referee called the battle a draw.

Returning to the United States, Sullivan was again hounded by Kilrain and the Police Gazette people. He waited until the Kilrain crowd offered to put up $10,000, and then he accepted the challenge.

The battle was pulled off at Richburg, Miss., on July 8, 1889, and Sullivan gave Mr. Kilrain the beating of his life.

In 1890 George Dixon, a marvelous little negro, won the featherweight championship of the world and held it against all comers.

Jack McAuliffe, one of the cleverest men that ever put on a glove, took charge of the lightweight championship in 1885 and moved challengers down as fast as they came up.

Jack Dempsey, the great Nonpareil, was middle-weight champion, wresting the title in 1884 and keeping it without a defeat until his fluke knockout by La Blanche in 1889.

Sullivan, Dixon, McAuliffe and Dempsey—never was there a day when four such champions held their titles at the same time. In 1890 it didn't seem that any change could possibly take place. The four were considered invincible.

Dempsey was the first to go. Fitzsimmons, the heavyweight on the legs of a lightweight, beat the Nonpareil in 1891 in thirteen rounds and poor Dempsey drank himself to death.

1892 was a great year. On September 7, Sullivan entered the ring again to defend his title, this time against James J. Corbett, the San Francisco phenomenon. The same week in New Orleans, but on different nights, Dixon and McAuliffe met challengers also.

Sullivan had not fought for three years and had been drinking steadily. Corbett was eight years younger, three inches taller and almost as heavy. Also his skill had been proved by desperate victories over men like Choynski and Kilrain and a sixty-one-round draw with Peter Jackson.

But Sullivan was regarded as unbeatable. Corbett wasn't given a look-in by the experts. Dixon and McAuliffe defended their titles successfully and this was looked on as a sure sign of Sullivan's victory.

Whiskey beat Sullivan. He entered the ring fat and slow. The old furious attack was gone. The blows that used to send opponents in the bullets were now heavy, painful swings. All that he had left was his courage.

Jack McAuliffe lasted until 1894, when he retired and Kid Lavigne took possession of the lightweight title. George Dixon held on until 1900, when whiskey made him a victim to the bull rushes of young Terry McGovern.

For five years Corbett held the heavyweight championship and held it cleanly and well. Like Gentleman Jackson, of the old English ring, he did much to elevate the game by his science and general decency.

WHAT IS GOOD IN MARKETS HERE TODAY

Continued rainy weather has made native green vegetables scarce and dear. The supply from the Jersey, Delaware and Maryland truck gardens is still adequate, although high prices prevail.

Southern peaches are very plentiful and excellent in quality. Prices vary but are, on the whole, extremely low for the splendid fruit that is coming in. Retail dealers ask 20 and 25 cents for small boxes, and 40 to 50 cents for large ones. There are a few reports of peaches coming in, but they are higher priced.

Canteloupes and watermelons are very plentiful and quite cheap. Dealers say that watermelons are selling cheaper than ever before in the Boston market, big melons selling for as low as 20 cents each.

Green corn is exceedingly scarce and and the best ears are selling at 40 to 45 cents a dozen, an unprecedented high price for this season.

New potatoes from New Jersey and points south are coming into the market in ever increasing quantities. They sell at wholesale for 50 to 65 cents a bushel. The retail price varies. A few sweet potatoes are being received.

End Public Hearing by U. S. Trade Board

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—No public hearing of complaints against alleged unfair methods of competition in business will be given by the Federal Trade Commission, it was announced at the offices of the commission today. Neither will publicity be given to the fact that any particular corporation has been made to change its method. The correction of abuses in trade, until they reach the point of court action, are to be kept secret.

Italians Quit Work and Start for War

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Thirty Italian laborers employed on the State road between Malone and Whippleville, suddenly threw down their picks and shovels today and all set out for Italy to join the army. Singing patriotic songs the thirty men marched to the railway station, where they boarded a train for New York.

Allies Kill Eight in Raid Over Bavaria

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—An official communication issued here tells of an allied air raid over Nordrach-Lake in Sankt Ingbert, Bavaria. Eight persons were killed and two wounded in the latter town.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened strong with activity of the railroads a feature. War stocks ruled higher, but were not pre-eminent in trading. There was not much business in coppers. Other rallies to the New York market. In Boston there was not much action.

After the start there was the considerable profit taking in New York, and a number of issues eased off, but more retained some gain than lost all advance. It was predicted that if roads continue to rise the market will have to withstand considerable foreign liquidation. The securities shipped from England with the $35,000,000 gold consigned by the Bank of England to J. P. Morgan & Co. are estimate to total $17,000,000. It is believed that covering on an extensive scale helped send rails higher. The few reports created considerable demand for them, while a Washington report is that Western lines are going to be granted increased freight rates this week. That there is more shipment of goods and products in this country is indicated by a decrease of 11,393 in idle cars last month.

STOCKS AT NEW HIGHS.

Among stocks to make new highs for this year were Lehigh Valley and Erie. Studebaker and Willys-Overland made new price records among industrials. Crucible Steel was the weakest of the war order issues.

Among early gains in New York were Atchison ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¾, Canadian Pacific ¾, Chesapeake & Ohio 1¼, Erie ¾, N. Y. Central ¼, New Haven ¼, Northern Pacific ½, Reading ¾, Southern Pacific ½, St. Paul 1¼, Union Pacific 1, Rock Island ¼, Allis-Chalmers ¾, U. S. Steel ¼, Coalers ¾, Foundry ¾, Baldwin 1¼, Studebaker ¾, Willys-Overland 6, Utah Copper ½ and Anaconda ¼.

MORE BREADTH IN BOSTON.

There was a little more breadth to trading in the Boston market, but copper issues were in much demand. They were affected by the recent decline of metal prices in London. Among gains here were Alaska Gold ¼, American Woolen preferred ¼, Butte and Superior ¼, Calumet and Arizona ¾ and United Fruit ½. Declines included American Zinc 1¼, Copper Range ¾, Granby ½, Greene-Cananea ¼ and North Butte ¼.

A Washington dispatch reads: "Some of western rate increases are held justified and others unjust by decision of Interstate Commerce Commission just handed down."

FARMERS WIN IN WESTERN RATE DECISION

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The farmer and farm interests today won a big victory over the railroads. The Interstate Commerce Commission handed down its decision in the Western rate advance case and granted but few of the railroads' proposed increases. The proposed advances in grain, grain products, livestock and packing house products, the biggest on the list, were denied.

Commissioners Harlan and Daniels dissented from the majority opinion. The decision handed down finds as follows:

"Proposed increased carload rates on grain products considered as one commodity, not justified.

"Proposed increases from 30,000 pounds to 40,000 pounds in the minimum carload weight of grain products, justified.

"Proposed increased carload rates on packing house products, except as to South Dakota points, justified. The rates on these to Pacific coast which are the same as on coal, justified.

"Proposed increased carload rates on packing house products, and carload rates on domestic rice, justified.

"Proposed increased carload rates on broom corn, not justified.

"Proposed increased import rates and increased carload rates on carbonic minima from Gulf ports, justified.

"Proposed increased carload rates on hay and straw, not in excess of Class C, justified.

"Proposed increased any-quantity rates on cotton-piece goods and proposed increased carload rates from points in Texas, not justified."

Favor Repeal of La Follette Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Diversion of interest in the La Follette seamen's act because of the Eastland disaster at Chicago will have no effect in stopping the referendum of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on a proposal that the act should be repealed. The referendum, involving chamber of commerce throughout the country, has now begun. It was announced at national headquarters that returns are almost wholly in favor of repeal.

Say Submarines of Germans Flew Flag

By International News Service.

Sultan's Kin Victims of Typhus Epidemic

BUCHAREST, Aug. 11.—An epidemic of typhus is making terrible ravages in Constantinople. More than 100 are dying each day and in all classes of society.

Ismail Bey and other nearby relatives of the Sultan are among the victims. Mahomedans accuse the Germans of poisoning cisterns.

Three Reports by U. S. Industrial Board

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Because Chairman Frank P. Walsh of the United States Industrial Relations Commission has made the testimony of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the central theme of his report to Congress on the industrial unrest of the country, it was learned here today he would probably have the support of the three labor members of that commission, Messrs. Garretson, Lennon and O'Connell. Opposed to that report will be one by Professor John R. Commons and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, and still another by Commissioner Weinstock, the latter agreeing with three members representing the employers.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE;
OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

LET US PROMOTE THE WORLD'S PEACE, NOT PROMOTE THE WORLD'S WARFARE

PRESIDENT WILSON: This newspaper, moved by a heartfelt concern for the welfare of the world, and speaking, it believes, the sentiments of many millions of your fellow-citizens, makes this direct appeal to you to use your personal influence and the powers and authority of your great office to put an end to the exportation of arms and munitions of war intended to kill men and devastate cities and villages and fields and homes in unhappy Europe.

We make this appeal, Mr. President, with all respect for your high position and with all honesty and sincerity of purpose; and we most earnestly ask that you yourself and the whole American people carefully weigh the arguments upon which this appeal is based.

It is admitted that we have a right to supply arms to our brother nations who are destroying themselves in this wicked war.

We have that right under international law, but have we that right under moral law?

We have that right under the law of nations, but have we that right under the law of God?

The Lord God has said, "Thou Shalt Not Kill." Does that mean also, "Thou Shalt Not HELP to Kill?"

If it is criminal to be a murderer, is it not just as criminal to be an accessory before the fact?

In the case of two accomplices in murder, is he who murders for hate any worse than he who murders for profit?

The professionally good Mr. Bryan, whose chief characteristic, next to insincerity, is inconsistency, poses as the apostle of peace and advocates the supplying of arms to the nations at war.

The inconsistent and inhumane attitude of the United States government is probably due to Mr. Bryan's influence when Secretary of State, for when in office and since he has persistently argued in favor of the shipment of arms to the contending nations.

The law among nations may not have been carried to the same completeness as the law among individuals, but the moral law, the divine imposition, applies to human beings universally—to individuals separately and to nations which are simply groups of individuals.

If Mr. Bryan saw two men engaged in mortal combat he would not, while bidding them desist in the name of peace, at the same time encourage them to continue by supplying them with pistols and knives to make their conflict more deadly.

If Mr. Bryan saw two men engaged in deadly and destructive conflict, he would not consider it right for himself or for any other man to supply these murderously-inclined men with the implements of murder simply because there was a handsome profit to be derived therefrom.

If Mr. Bryan would not advocate or stimulate this incidental murder and incitement to murder through the supply of arms to men actively engaged in murder, in the case of two men or of ten men, why advocate it in the case of a million men?

Is it any worse to kill men or aid the killing of men by twos and ten than it is by thousands and tens of thousands?

Mr. Bryan is an advocate of prohibition. What would Mr. Bryan think of a man who advocated prohibition and at the same time manufactured alcoholic liquor and sold it over a bar to make men drunk, justifying himself by the statement that he had "the right under the law" to do this?

The plain fact is that the people of this nation are either in favor of peace or they are not.

If they are in favor of peace, they should be against war and against the supplying of arms to the nations engaged in a needless, useless, purposeless war, when they know that those arms are to be used to increase the murder and destruction of that war.

If the people of this country are NOT in favor of peace, then they should continue to supply arms to the murdering nations and make all the money they can out of the murder.

But in that event they should stop prating about peace.

We should cease assuming a virtue which we do not possess and go coldly and boldly out to acquire any blood money which may be "coming our way."

If we cannot be conscientious let us at least be consistent.

But this newspaper is in favor of peace and it believes that THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES are in favor of peace.

It believes that these people are conscientious and are consistent in their conscientiousness.

It believes with President Wilson that these people of ours are sincerely devoted to "principle," and that they do not care whether the operation of that principle embarrasses Germany and benefits England, or whether it embarrasses England and benefits Germany, as long as it is a just and righteous principle.

We are not partisan in our "principle," President Wilson.

We are not pro-German or pro-British, Mr. President.

We stand for abstract principle and for its CONCRETE APPLICATION IN A NEUTRAL, IMPARTIAL AND ABSOLUTELY JUST AND RIGHTEOUS MANNER.

We turn to you, President Wilson, as the President of a people of "principle."

Now that Mr. Bryan is out of your Cabinet and his influence removed from your administration, why cannot you, President Wilson, apply the just and righteous principle, the civilized principle, the Christian principle to this matter of exportation of arms to nations evilly engaged in destroying themselves and the achievements of civilization and Christianity?

We speak thus directly to you, Mr. President, because we have the grateful testimony of your own words that you yourself view this matter as this newspaper views it.

We find these words in your message upon the subject of Mexico, which you delivered to the Congress in August, 1913:

> "For the rest, I deem it my duty to exercise the authority conferred upon me by the law of March 14, 1912, to see to it that neither side of the struggle now going on in Mexico receive any assistance from this side of the border. I SHALL FOLLOW THE BEST PRACTICE OF NATIONS IN THE MATTER OF NEUTRALITY BY FORBIDDING THE EXPORTATION OF ARMS AND AMMUNITIONS OF WAR OF ANY KIND FROM THE UNITED STATES—a policy suggested by several interesting precedents. And certainly dictated by many manifest considerations of practical experience. We cannot in the circumstances be the partisans of either party to the contest that now distracts Mexico, or constitute ourselves the virtual umpire between them."

It seems to us, Mr. President, that you could not possibly have better stated then and could not possibly better state now the high and solemn obligation of this country to "follow the best practice of nations in the matter of neutrality by forbidding the exportation of arms and munitions of war of any kind from the United States," not only to the Republic of Mexico, but to any and to all republics, kingdoms and empires which are engaged in this dreadful and frightfully destructive war across the Atlantic.

Mr. President, you have finely and clearly stated the civilized, Christian duty of the United States to refrain from sending arms and munitions of war to the belligerents who are striving for victory in Mexico.

Mr. President, we ask you, in the name of the American people, who anxiously long for peace to come, if you cannot as finely and clearly state and enforce the civilized, Christian duty of the United States to refrain from sending arms and munitions of war to the belligerents who are striving for victory in Europe?

Sir, is there any "manifest consideration of practical expediency," or any consideration of duty and of humanity which applies to the Mexican conflict that does not apply far more weightily to this other vastly greater and more deadly and destructive European conflict?

The miserable plea that some Americans are making money out of this traffic can have no more weight with you, Mr. President, than it has with the millions of your fellow-citizens who abhor blood money.

The suggestion that we should sell arms and munitions of war in order to make up for the gigantic losses inflicted upon our peaceful, legitimate commerce by Great Britain, doubtless meets with the same disapproval from you, Mr. President, that it meets from all self-respecting American men and women.

Nor do we think that you, Mr. President, attach any importance to the preposterous argument that it would be unnatural for us to discontinue the sale of arms to the warring nations, since one side could not perhaps carry on the war many more months without a steady supply of arms and munitions from this country.

Neutrality, as you, of course, well know, Mr. President, DOES NOT ACTIVELY AID either belligerent to overcome the other in any war.

In your own words, substituting only the single word "Europe" for "Mexico":

> "We cannot in the circumstances BE THE PARTISANS OF EITHER PARTY to the contest that now distracts Europe or constitute ourselves the VIRTUAL UMPIRE between them."

If the exportation of arms and munitions of war to the belligerent forces in Mexico would make us "a partisan of either party" and put us in the position of "constituting ourselves the virtual umpire between them," it follows, perforce, that exporting arms and munitions to one party to the European war, on the ground that without such arms and munitions that party could not keep up the fight, is to make ourselves "a partisan of one party" and to "constitute ourselves the virtual umpire" of the war itself.

There is no possible escape from the logic of that conclusion.

Mr. President and citizens, let us try to promote peace, and as a preliminary step toward the promotion of peace, let us STOP THE EXPORTATION OF THE IMPLEMENTS OF WAR.
